Foreword

The primary purpose of a yearbook is to present the activities and people of a school through pictures and prose. Without the people of the school there could be no activities to portray in our book. But how did these people get here? They came by car, truck, or bus. For this reason we have chosen MOTOR VEHICLES as the theme of this year's WEICON.

On any given school day, Weiser's parking lots are filled with vehicles of every description. Those of us who live a distance from school depend heavily upon autos. Driving, a very important part of our society, is made even more so by the inclusion of driver training in the curriculum. A car will become even more important to us after graduation, for then we will need one to reach the places at which we will either continue our education or enter upon our life's work. Our parents have found an automobile essential in many phases of their lives.

To the present World of Wheels, we dedicate our 1969 WEICON.

Conrad Weiser Board Of Education

School board members spend many hours at meetings.

The Conrad Weiser board seriously accepts its responsibility for the welfare of a district with a student population of over 2,300 and an annual budget of 1 3/4 million dollars.

Supervising Principal
Mr. Walter A. Rohrbach

To the Class of 1969:

Your theme for the 1969 WEICON indicates one way schools have kept pace with a changing society. Vehicles bring students to school; they also enhance the instructional program. You were transported on curriculum-related field trips, to athletic contests, and to music programs. You participated in co-curricular activities, because a bus took you home after rehearsals and practices. Additional buses made possible the opportunities offered by the Berks County Vocational-Technical School. Certainly motor vehicles helped to enlarge horizons, broaden experiences, and heighten aspirations.

Your school's primary concern, however, has been you as the person you were growing to be. Vehicles will continue to be merely vehicles which we should use to help us become respected, educated, mature, and pro productive persons in a decent, law-abiding, and dynamic society ever striving to make possible a better life for all.

Best wishes for a rewarding future!

Sincerely,

Walter A. Rohrbach

Mr. John B. Stoltzfus

The life of each of us is divided into two factors:
the means and the ends
for which we live
The handling of these two factors
determines the quality of a man or an era
One after another the forces of the universe
have been motorized for our service
as in no other previous age
the means of living
The incommodity is not with our means but with our ends and there is no cure for that difficulty except strengthening the moral the spiritual and the conscious fibers of our souls

Best wishes to the Class of 1969

John B. Stoltzfus, Elementary Principal

MOTOR VEHICLES, A CHALLENGE

A parallel can be drawn between education and "Motor Vehicles," since both provide a means to an end. This end is an important step forward on the road of life. As vehicles are men's tools for creating a more convenient and comfortable life, so does education provide tools to be used in improving a man's position in life. These tools are many and serve as guides to make man a better being. It is our hope that we at Conrad Weiser have shared, guided, and provided some of the vehicles which will help you, the Class of 1969, "Go as far as you can see; and when you get there, you will see farther."

Success to the Class of 1969,
Terry W. Reber
High School Principal

Motor vehicles are constantly being improved in order to achieve greater speed, efficiency, and safety. Although few people would care to return to simpler and cruder days, all modern technical developments are good or bad depending upon the way they are used. Motor vehicles are no exception because they are no better than the individuals who use them. Statistics, on one hand, seem to prove that students who take driver training in school have a better record than the rest of the populace; on the other hand, however, they indicate that young people, as a whole, have a higher accident rate than any other age group. May we count on all seniors to use all modern developments in ways that benefit everyone. Congratulations to a wonderful class!

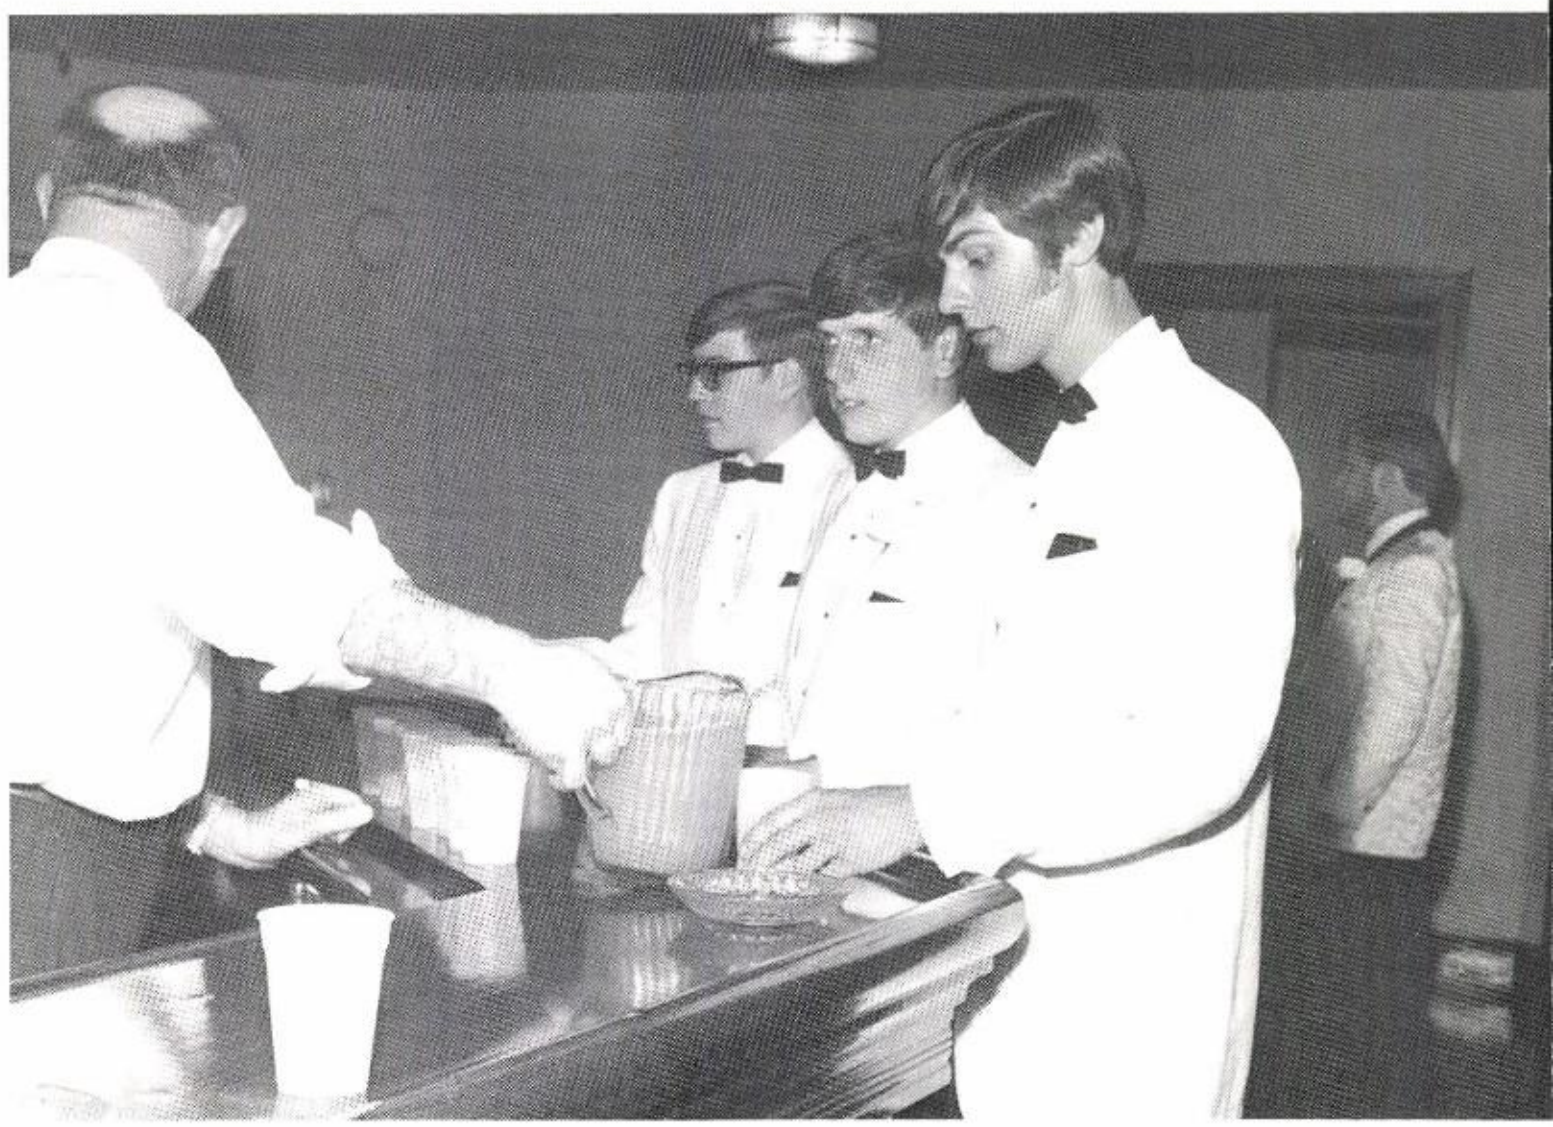
The Class Of '70 Presents "Memorable Moments"

Gary Hornberger escorts Rita Fry to the Reading Country Club Ballroom for an unforgettable evening of dancing.

The Redcoats provide the music for the gala evening of dancing.

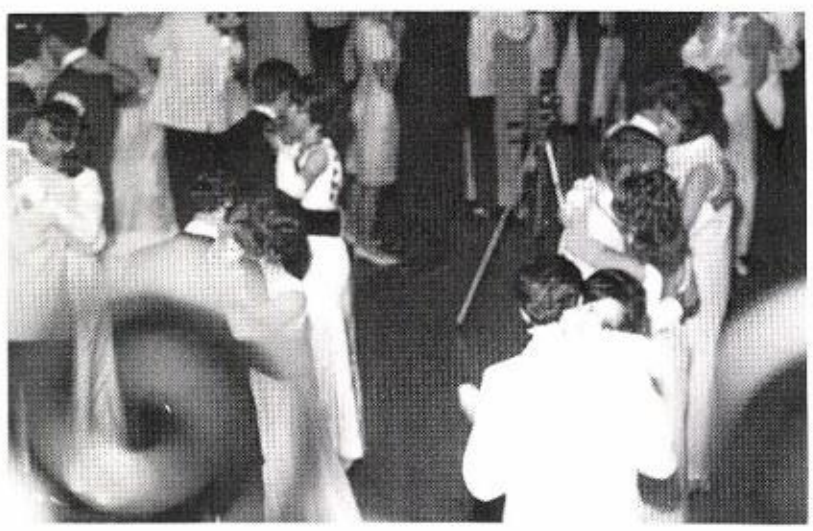
Nancy Frey and Quin Jones make a handsome couple as they smile and wave from the balcony.

Jimmy Hummel greets Kathy Brophy and Nancy Ulrich as they wait for a table.



Lee Auchenbach, Dennis Manbeck, and Steven Eisenhard take time out from dancing for refreshments.

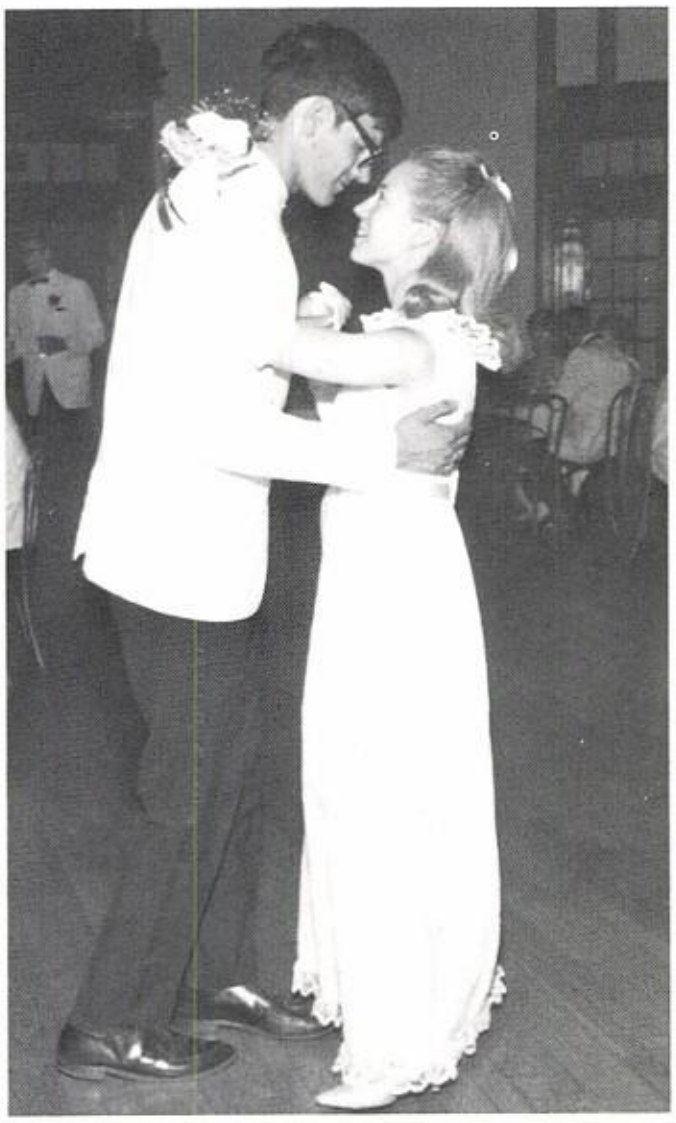
Dancing to soothing music puts Dennis Manbeck and Peggy Spittler in a dreamy mood.



Framed by the ornate balcony, couples sway to the music of the Red Coats.

Janet Lehman appears content as she sniffs her nosegay.

The lighted candle of the centerpiece lends a mysterious glow to the faces of Jane Eshbach and Andy Knoll.



Ray and Carol seem to have the floor all to themselves.

Karen Smith and her date pause for this pose on their way to the ballroom.

Diane Hoffa and Brenda Holzman admire each other's gown as they wait for the music to begin.

The crowded dance floor reflects the success of the prom.

Mighty swordsmen, B. Holzman and A. Koch, engage in combat.

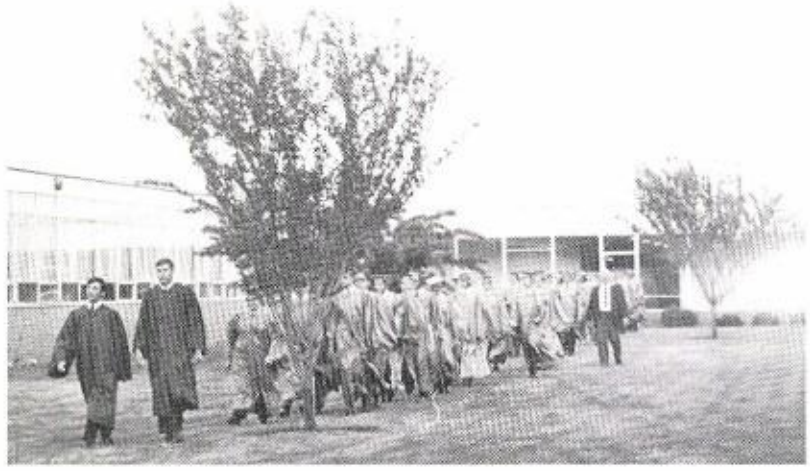
Subjects of Queen Diane alias Guinivere perform the Maypole dance in her honor.

Members of the boys' gym classes build intricate pyramids in honor of the Queen.

Anxious knights await their turn to joust.

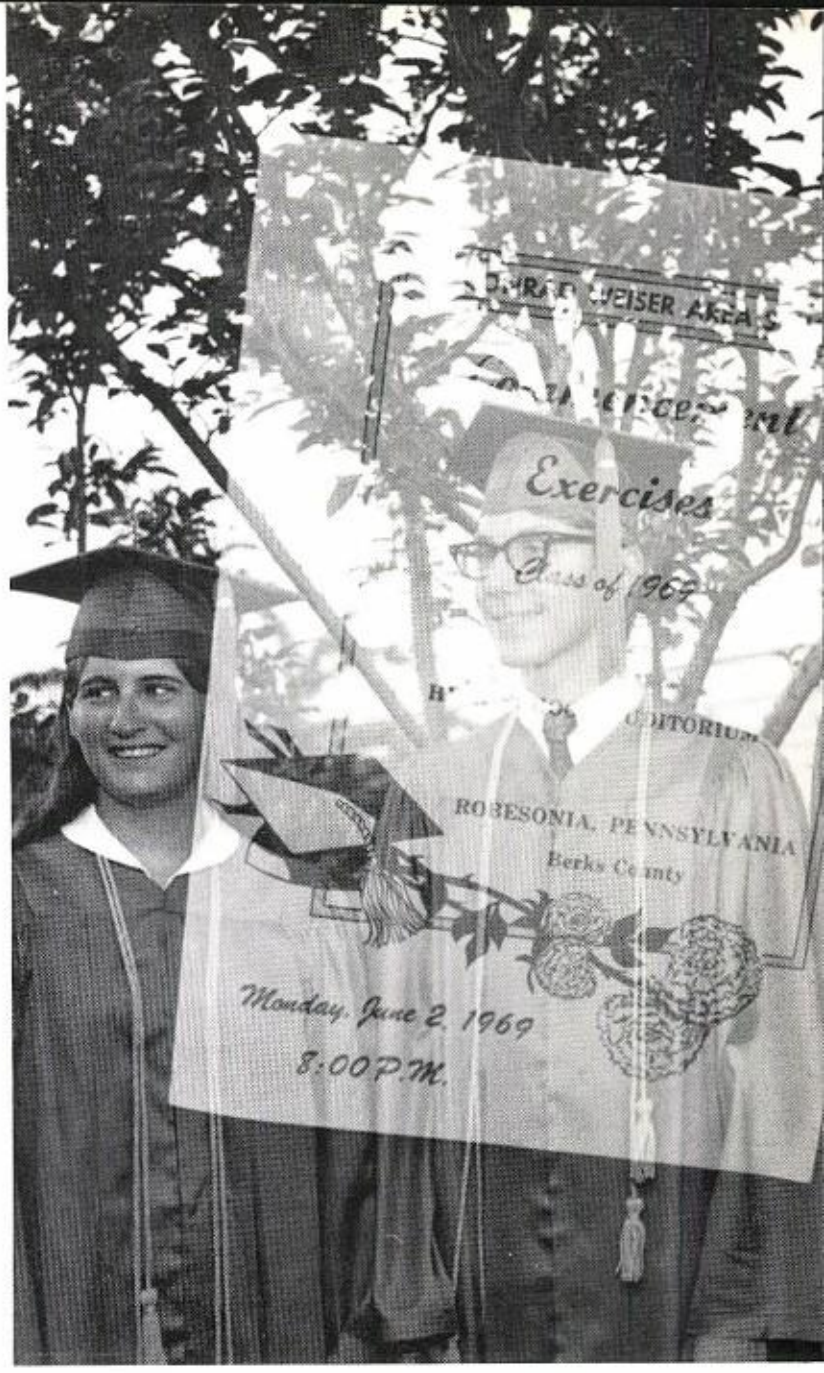
One of the many flowers that makes Camelot such a congenial spot.

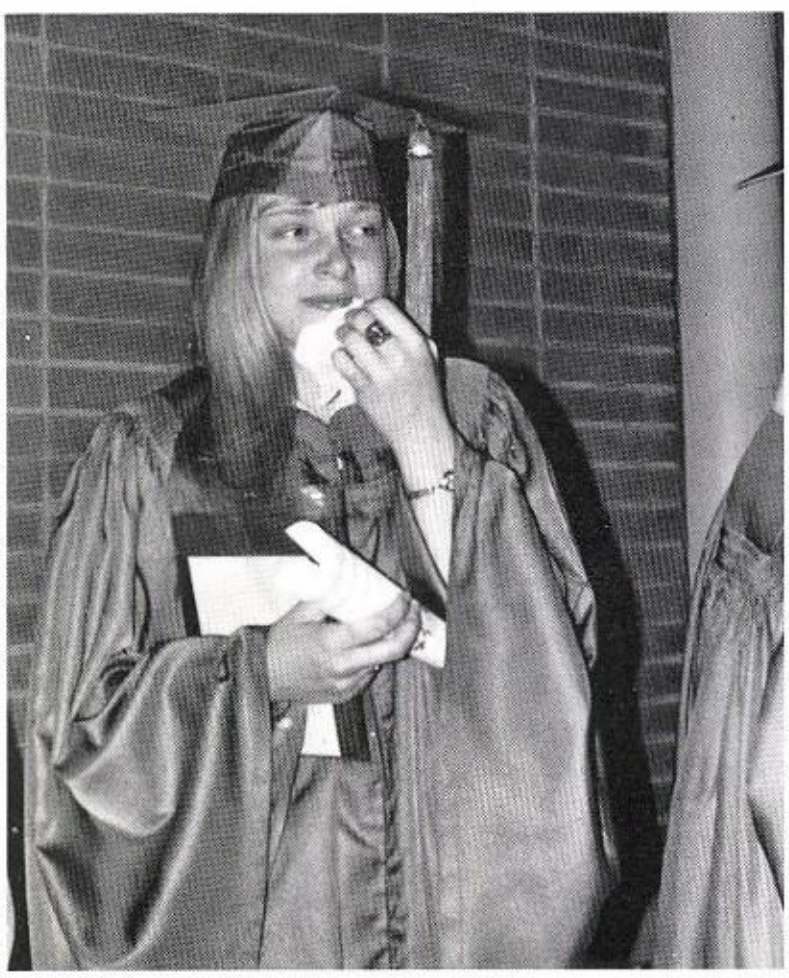
The ninth grade chorus and members of the senior band provide music for the May Day program.



Mr. Hess leads the "Class of 69" on their final walk through the courtyard as CW students.

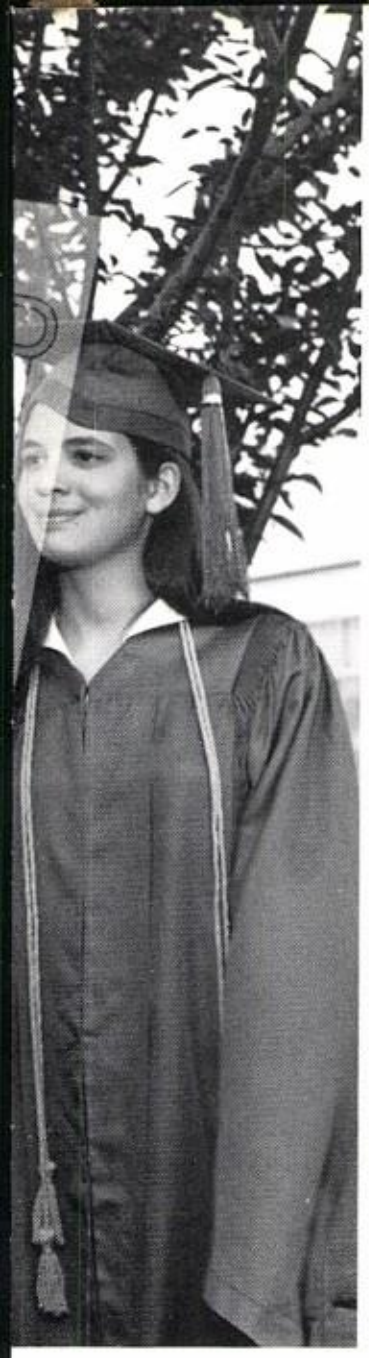
Andrew Knoll bids farewell to Conrad Weiser High School.



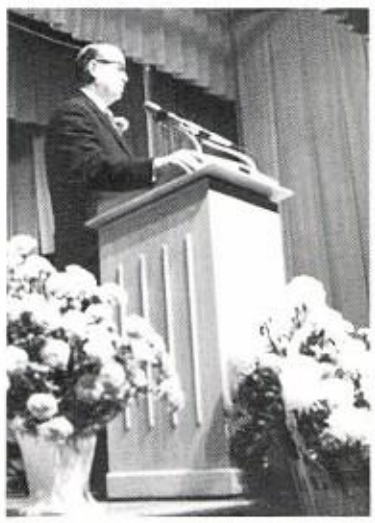


Graduation is a time for mixed emotions. Diane Hoffa's face reflects her sadness at leaving Weiser.

Mr. Charles Hartman, president of the school board, presents William Miller with his diploma.



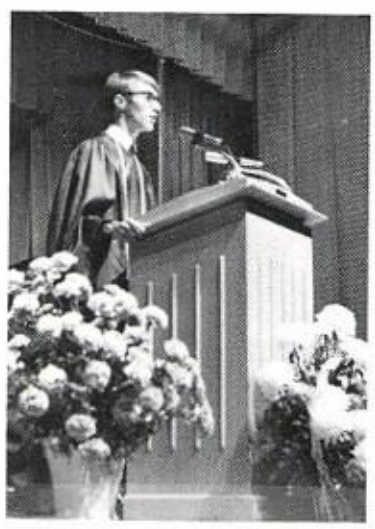
Superimposed on the pictures of the honor speakers, Betsy Adams, Andrew Knoll, and Karen Lutz, is a copy of the Commencement program.



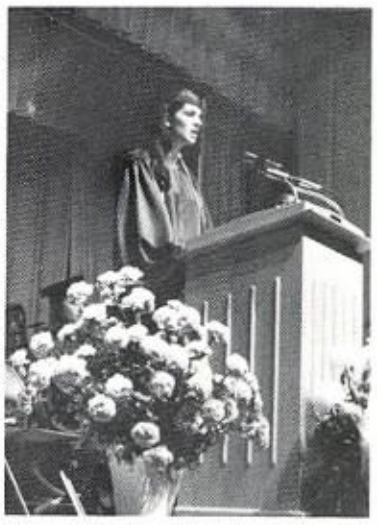
Dr. B. Anton Hess delivers his address to the Class of 1969 and their families and friends.

Following speeches by David Smyder, Student Council president, and Sherwood Lutz, class president, Reverend Elmer A. Dech presented the Baccalaureate address.

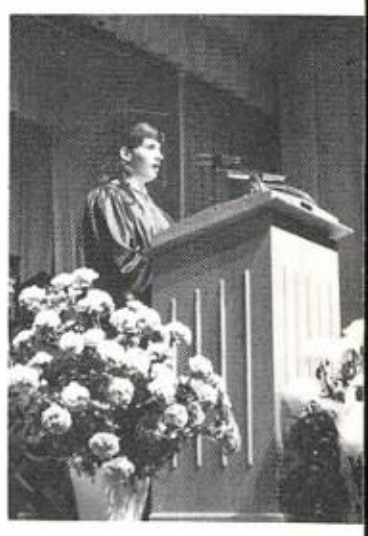
Getting ready for the "big moment" are Francis Luft, Carol Sims, and Phyllis Luft.



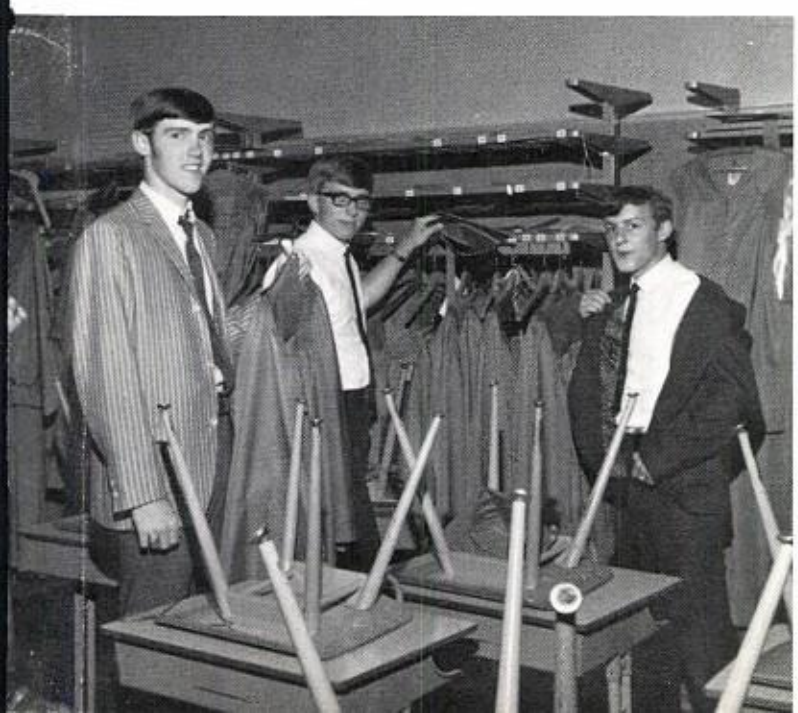
Valedictorian, Andrew Knoll



Salutatorian, Karen Lutz.



Historian, Betsy Adams.



Preparing for Baccalaureate are Kerry Rentschler, Harold Heller, and John Sweigart.

Now that the Class of 69 has reached the horizon of graduation, they find the new view is even more breathing and challenging.

The Weicon theme, "Motor Vehicles" brings to light the more humorous side of graduation. Daryl Krick and Bryan Snyder proudly display their work of art!

Prior to graduation, Nan Ruth chats with a cyclist, who unknowingly has portrayed another aspect of our theme.

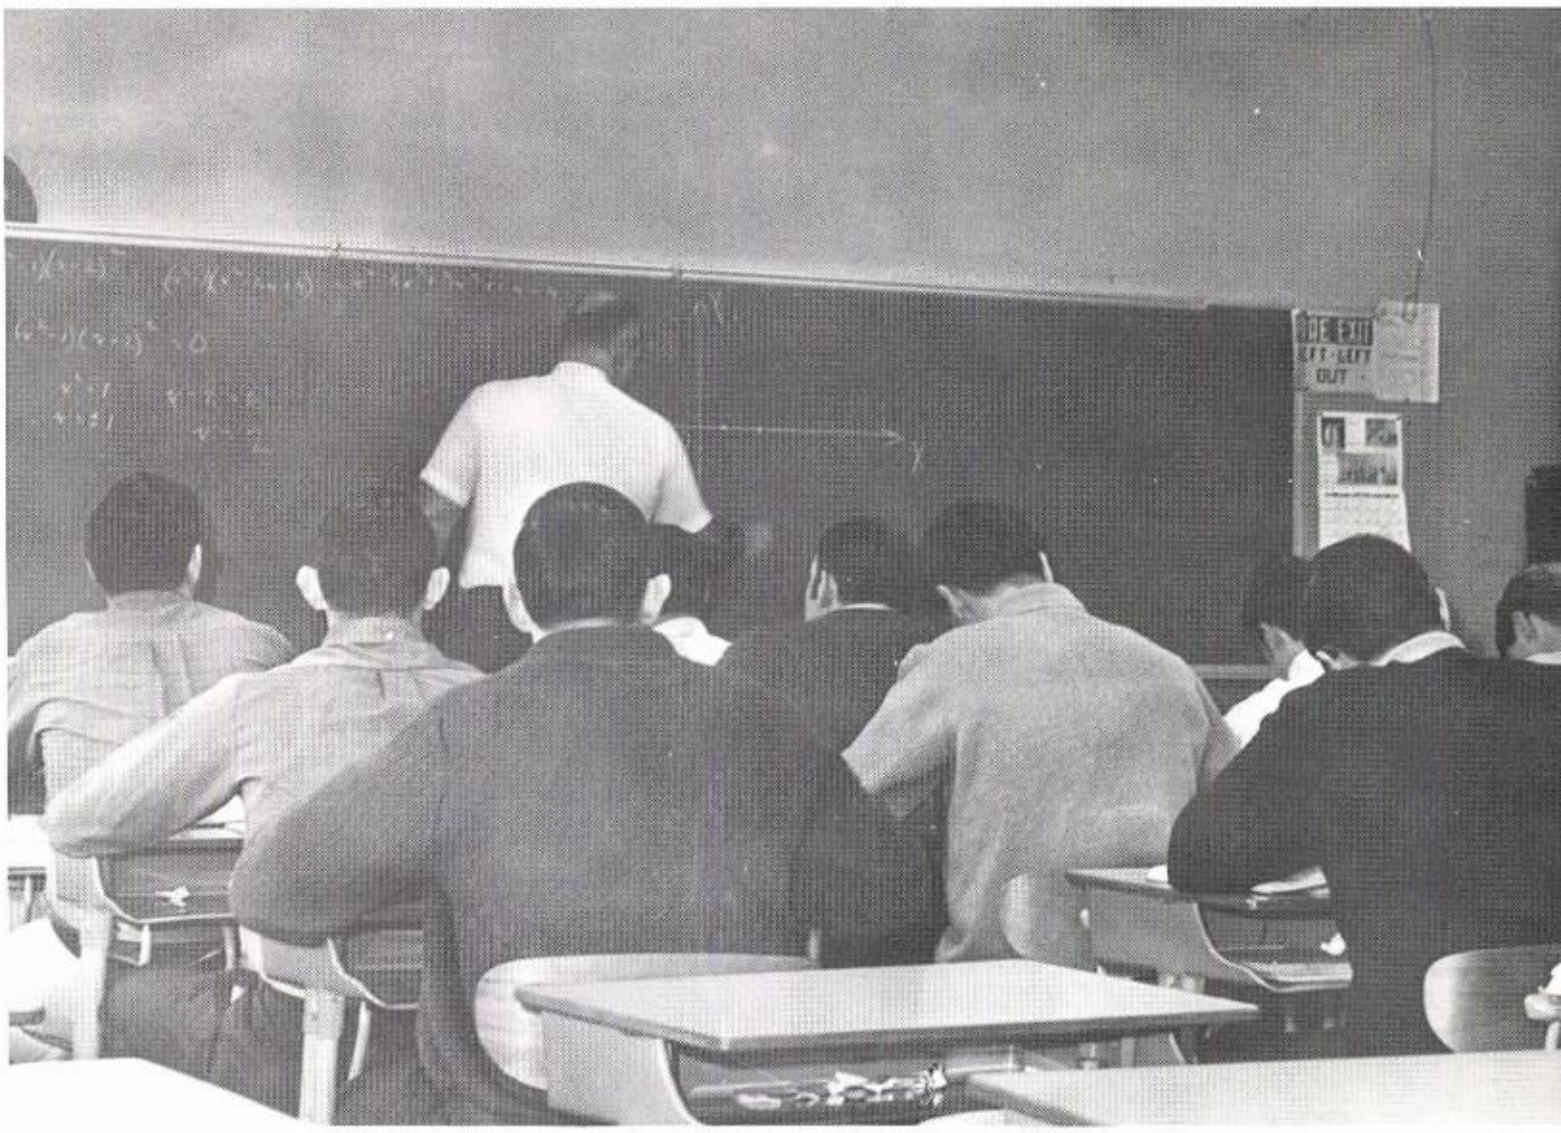
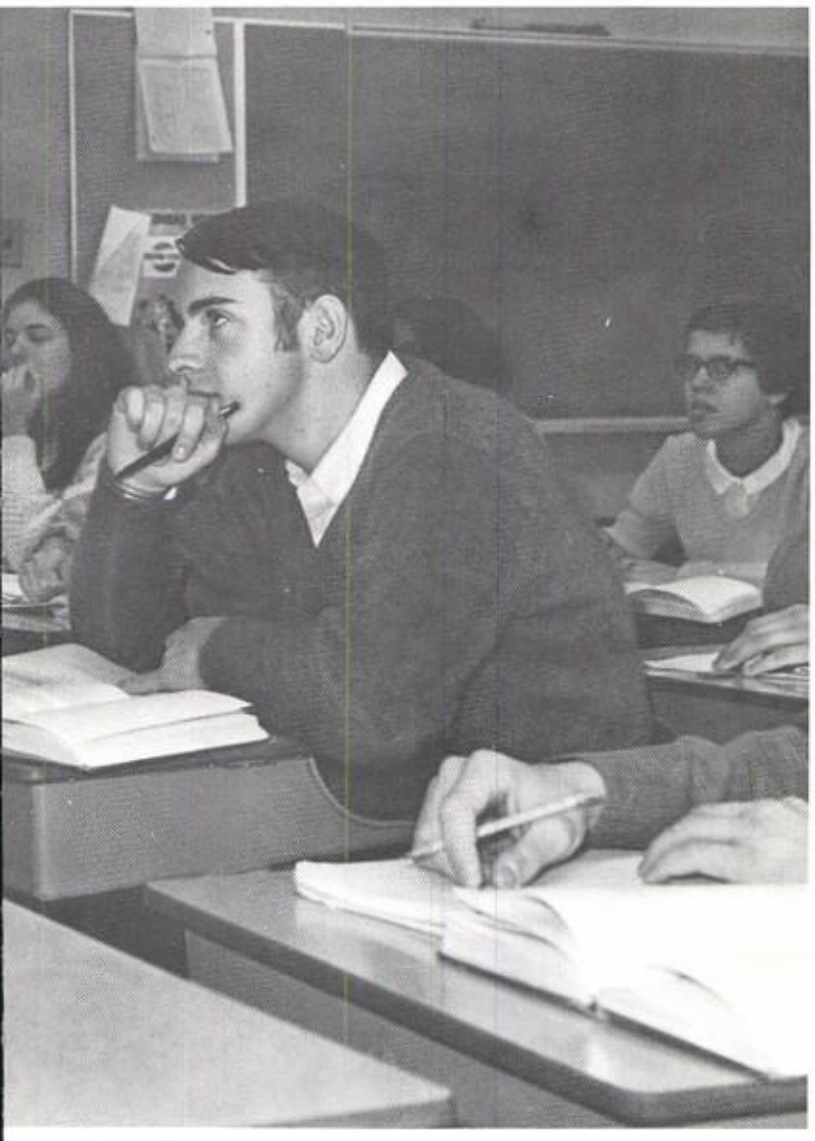
CURRICULUM

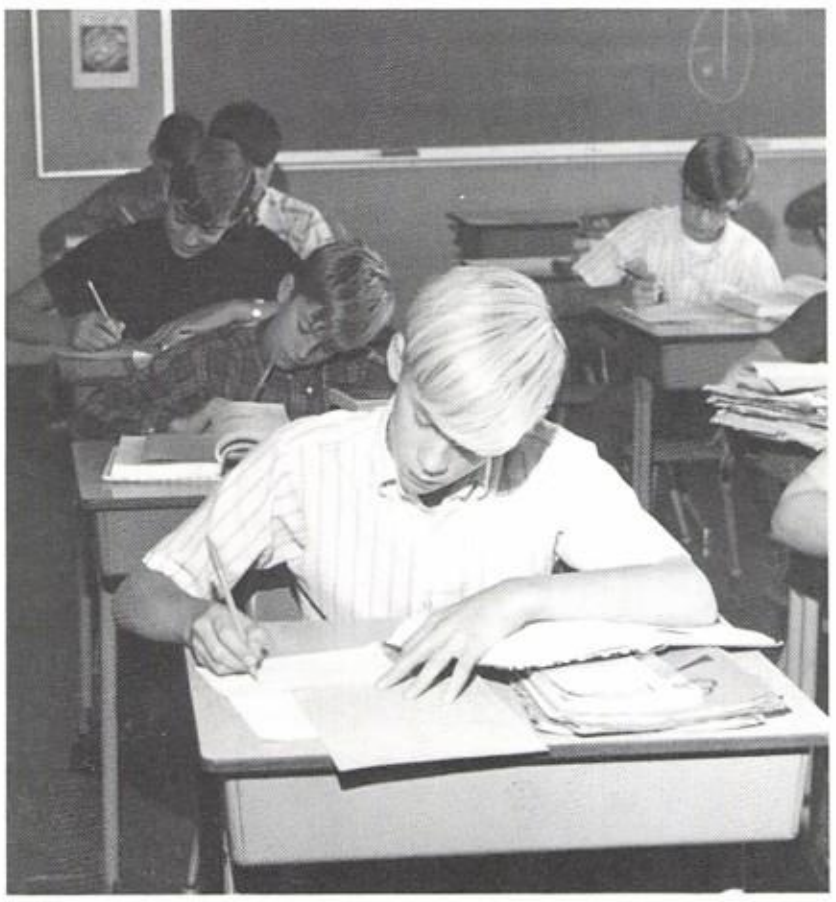
Right: The intricacies of the graph of a semi-cubical parabola absorb the senior analytic geometry class.
Far right: Timothy Heiniman is thoroughly engrossed by Mr. Hess's lecture.



Although her proof is wrong, Sarah Grajewski tries to pull a fast one on Mr. Hess.

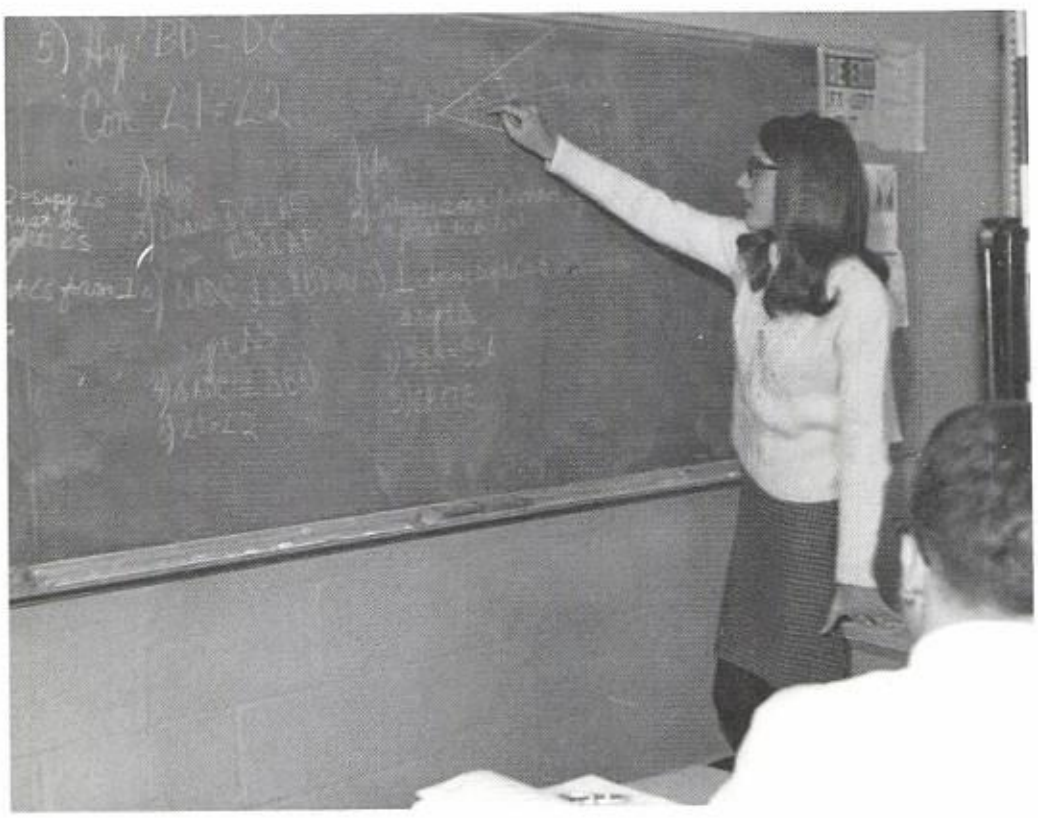
Math Department Constantly Exploring New Ideas



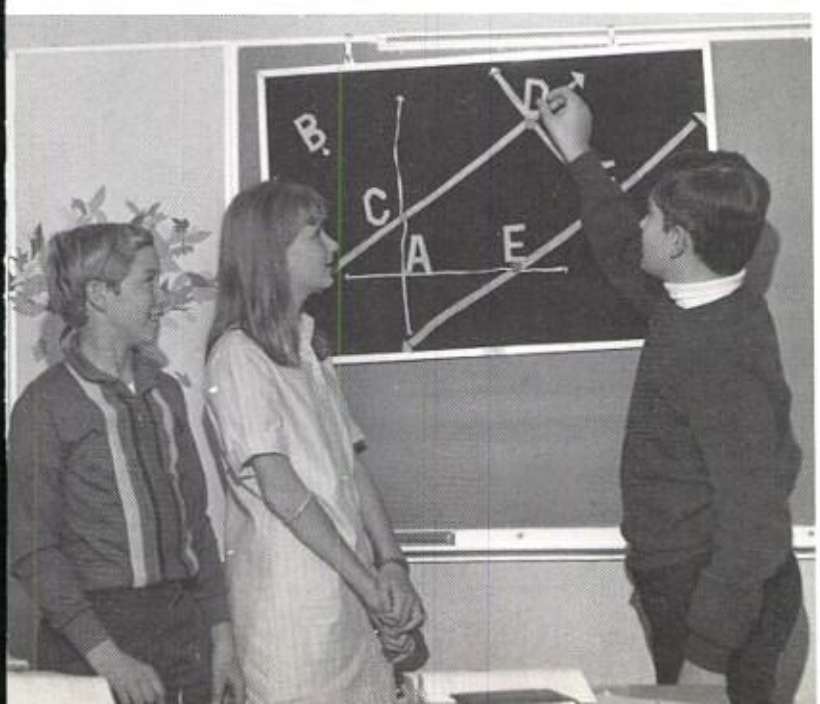


T. Adams and fellow eighth grade classmates work diligently at their algebra problems.

G. McCoy, B. Kline, and B. Snyder are studying the micrometer.

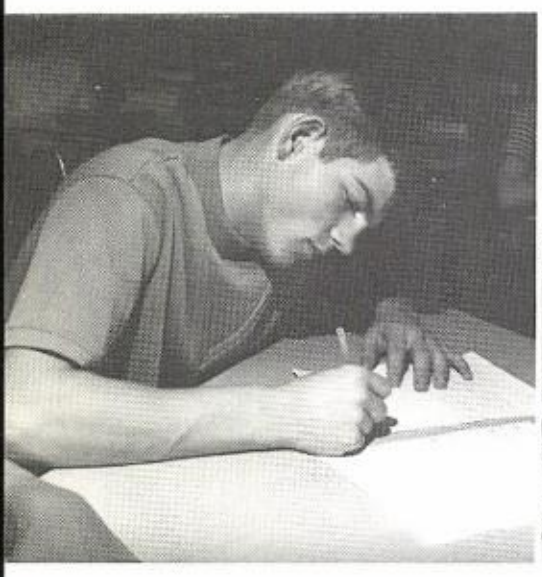


L. Lutz demonstrates to the class her method of proving that angle one is equal to angle two.



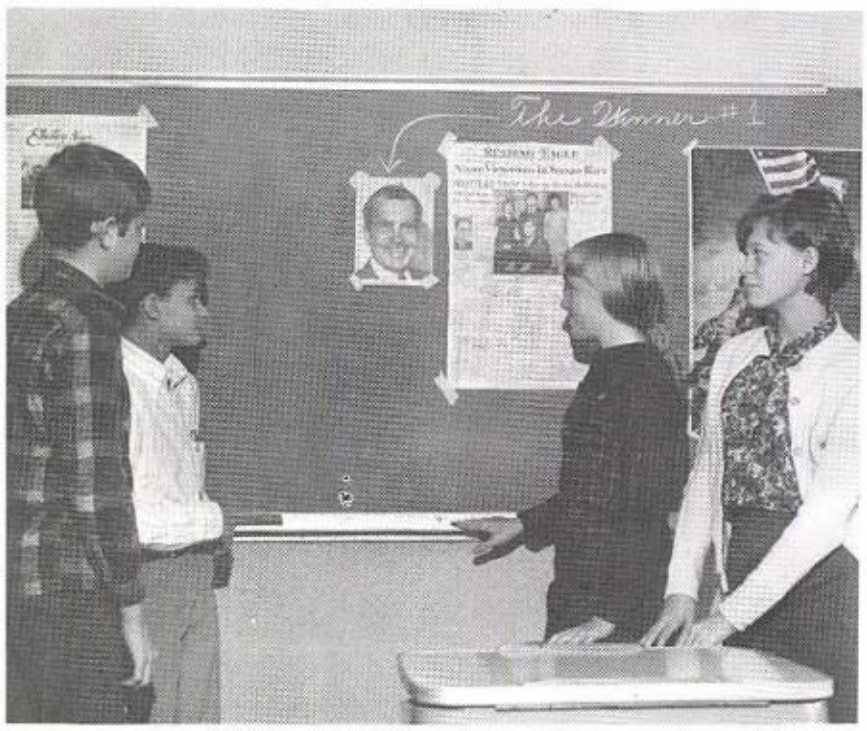
These seventh grade students are learning how to place points on a graph. Dingledein attempts to explain.

Fred DeLong doesn't take time out from his test to pose for the camera.



D. Edgar studies the beginning of reform in America.

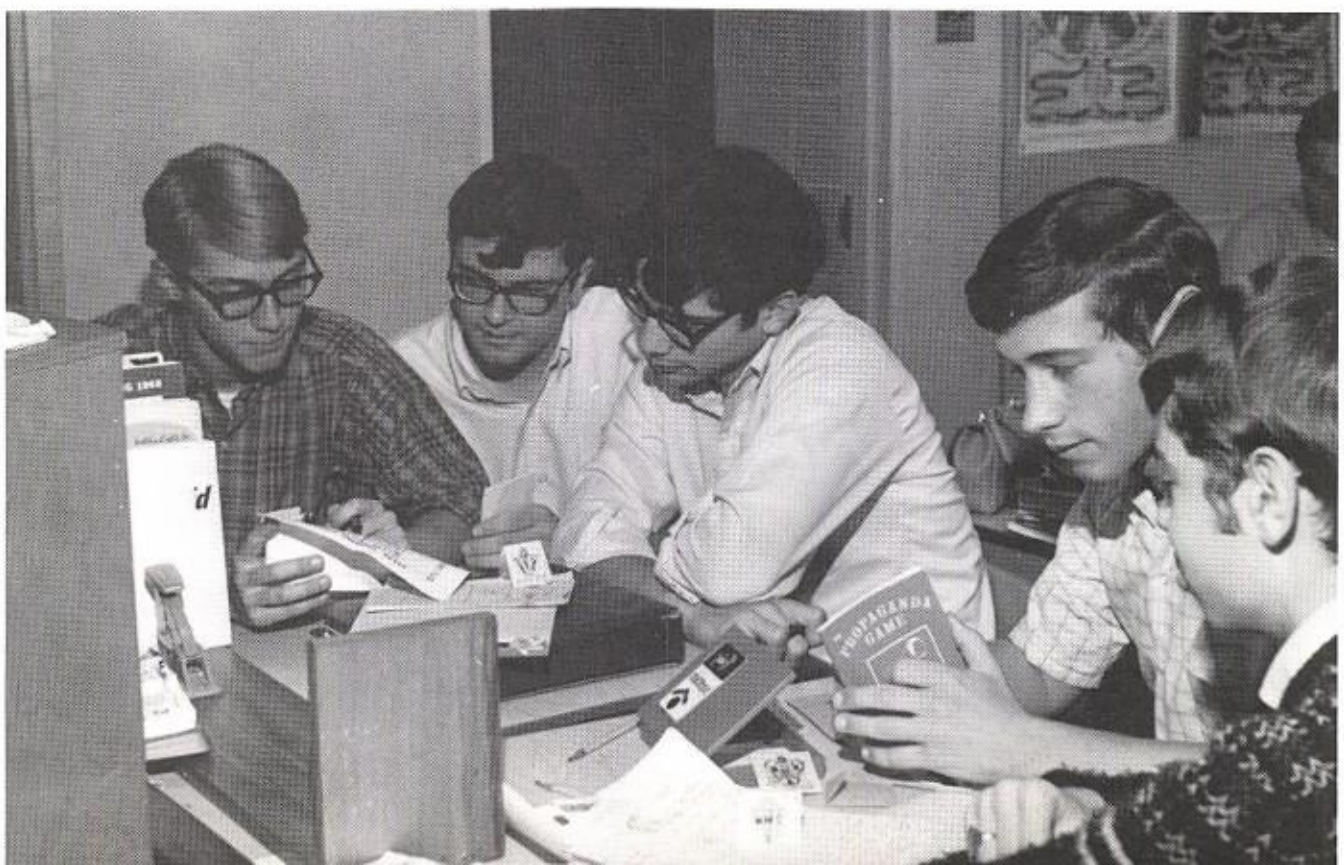
Eleventh grade students eagerly answer Mr. Gibson's questions.

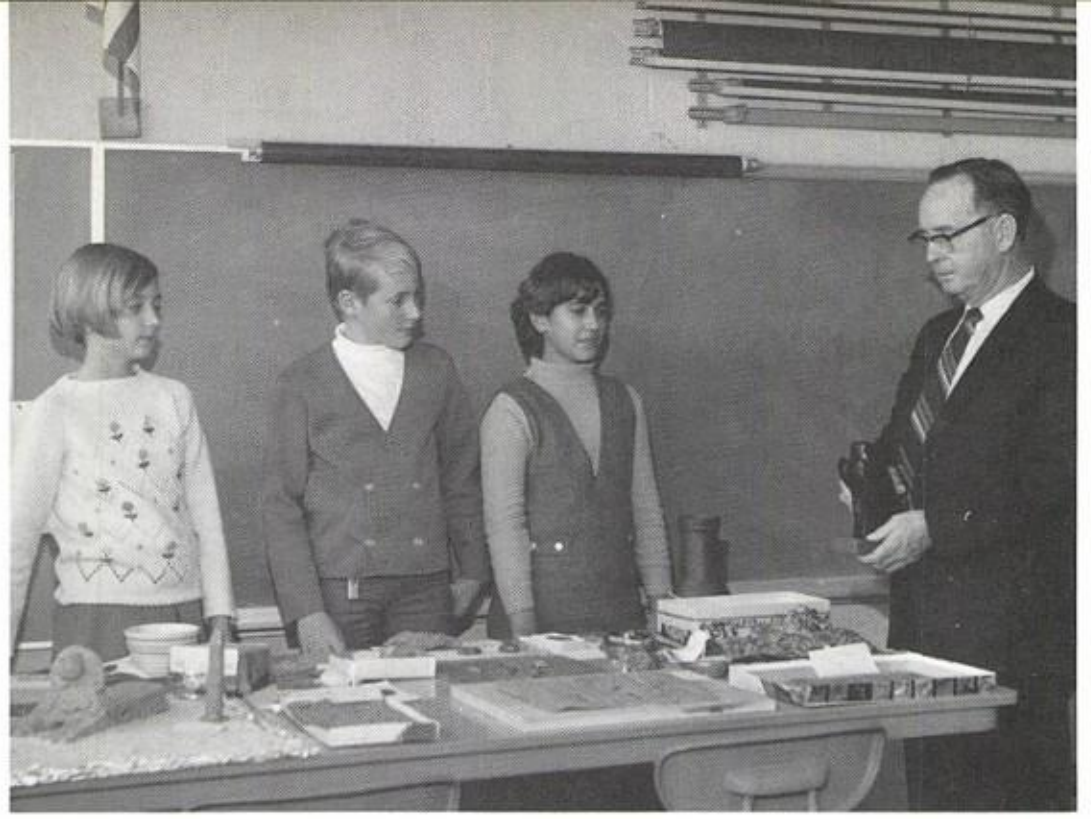


During the mock election, Weiser students voted overwhelmingly for Nixon.

As Weiser Goes So Goes The Nation—Nixon!

In addition to making propaganda analyses, the senior POD classes also played the "Propaganda Game."

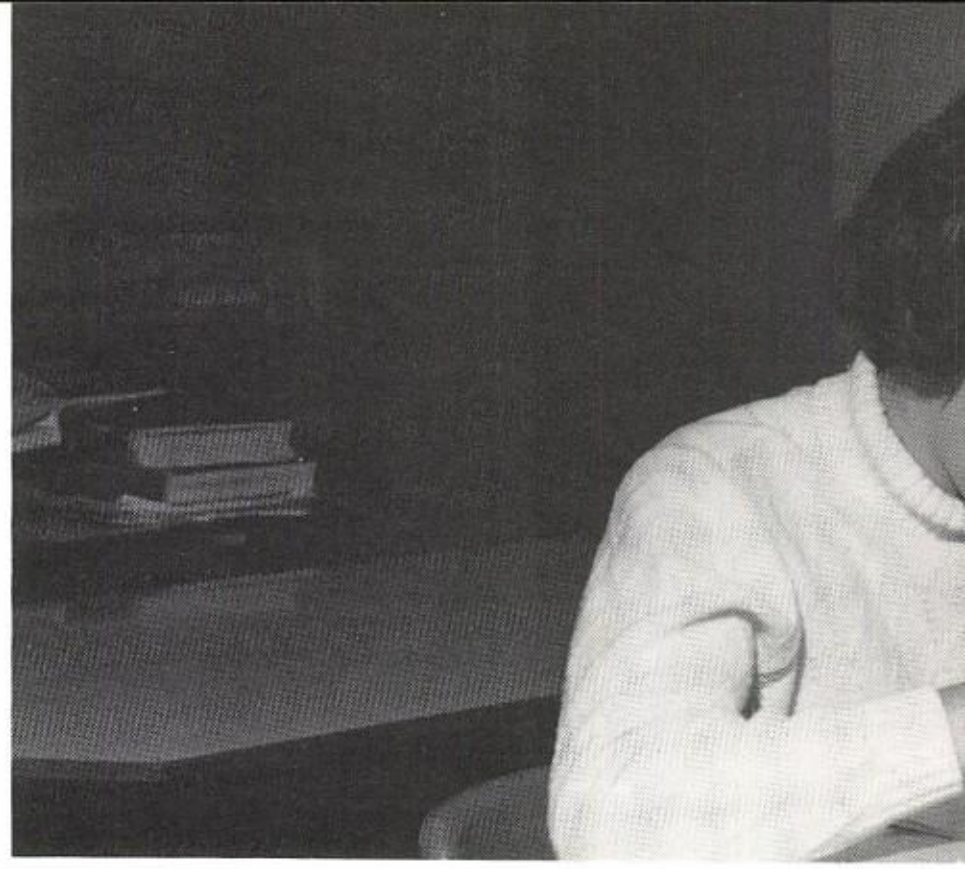




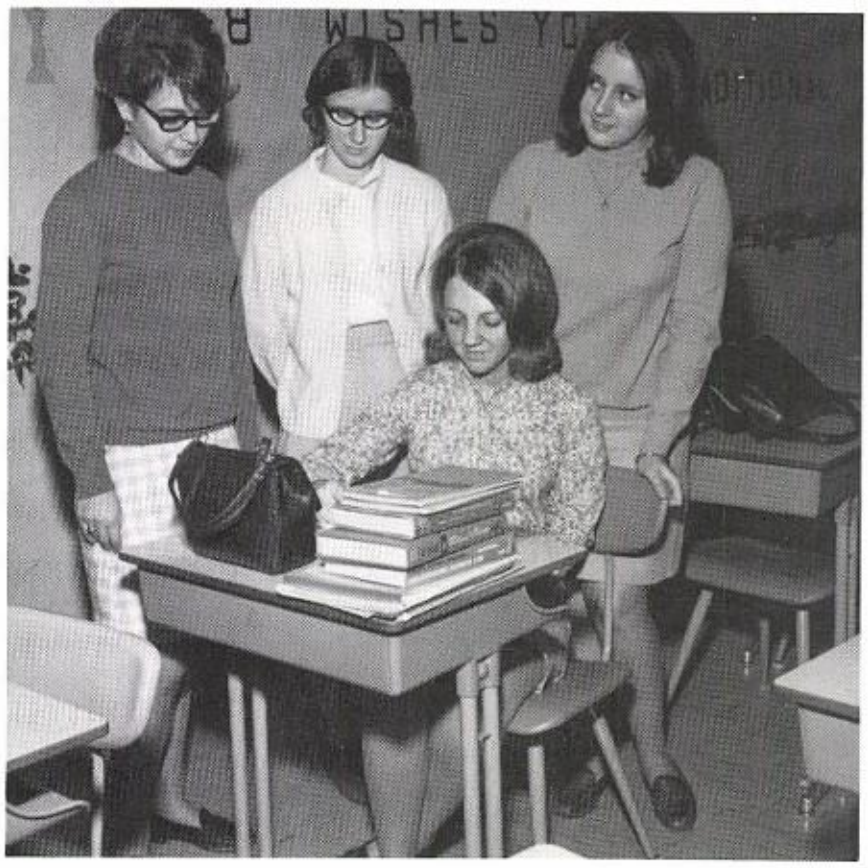
Ancient History includes the study of these artifacts produced by the industrious seventh graders. Mr. Golden explains their significance to D. Polson, J. Marshall and M. Miller.

A map of the United States is an invaluable aid in the study of American history by D. Kintzer and M. Evans.

Although she doesn't enjoy taking tests, Elsa Kramer finds this vocabulary test easy.

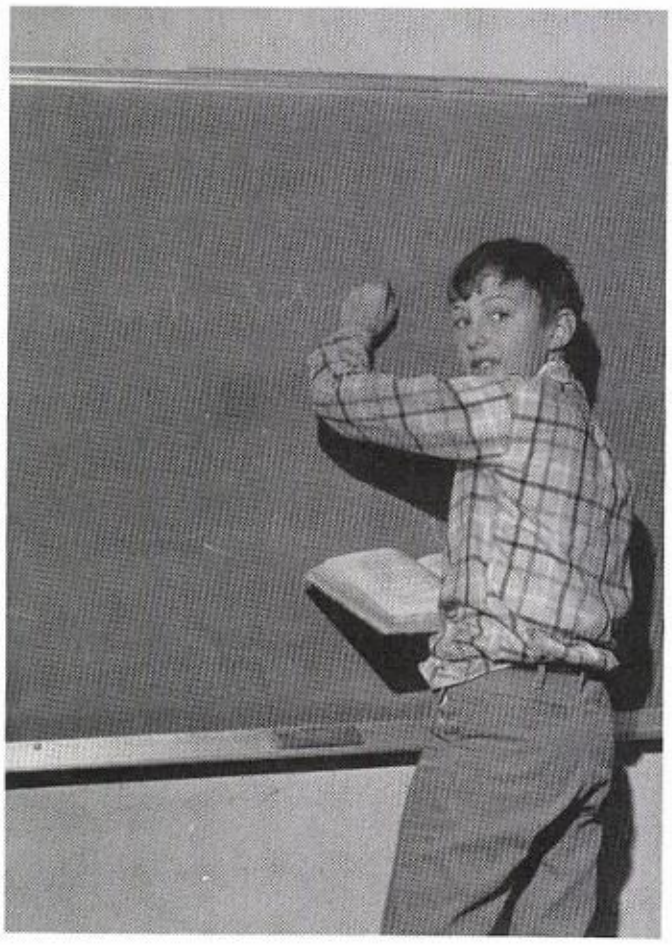


Bonnie Kissling's English assignment really requires deep concentration.

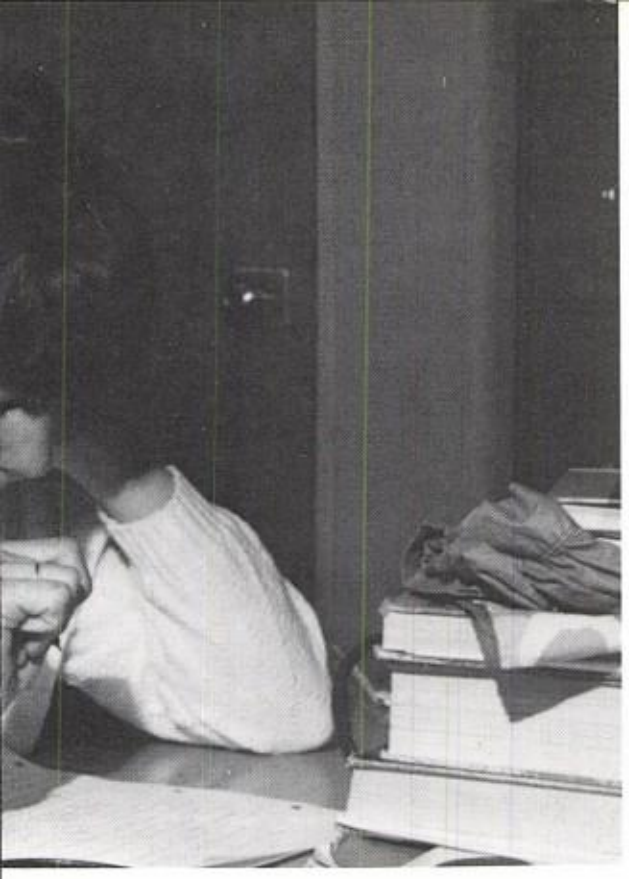


Donna Auman, Doreen Bernhard, Connie Edgar, and Coni Bailey struggle through their first year of creative writing.

Timothy Hummel questions the teacher as he composes a sentence.



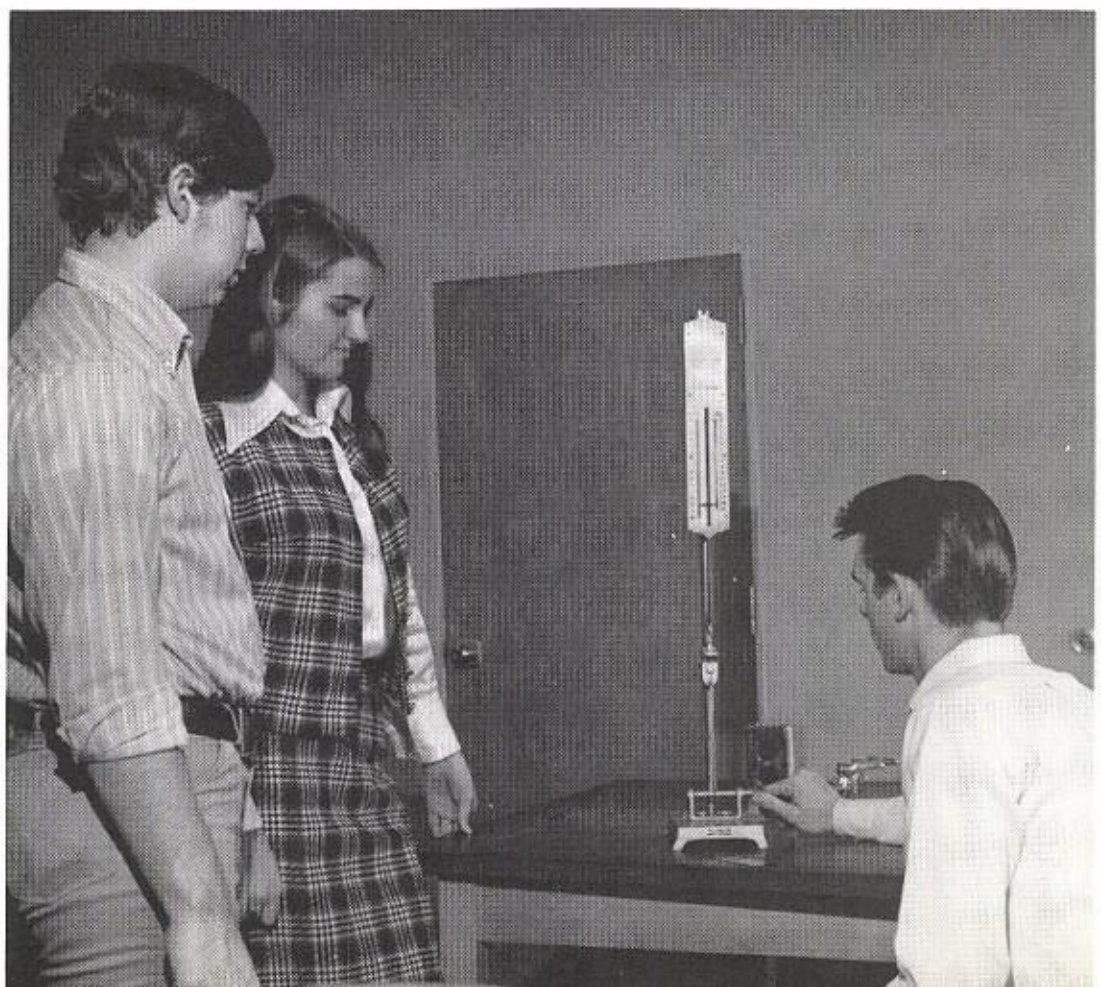
Seniors Trip To Fox Theater In Reading, Highlights Mr. Shaner's "Lit" Course.



Bill Ross says, "Happiness is 100% on one of Mrs. Baer's tests!"

Ruby Heffelfinger, Linda Brown, and Rick Baim find records helpful in the preparation of speeches for Mr. George.

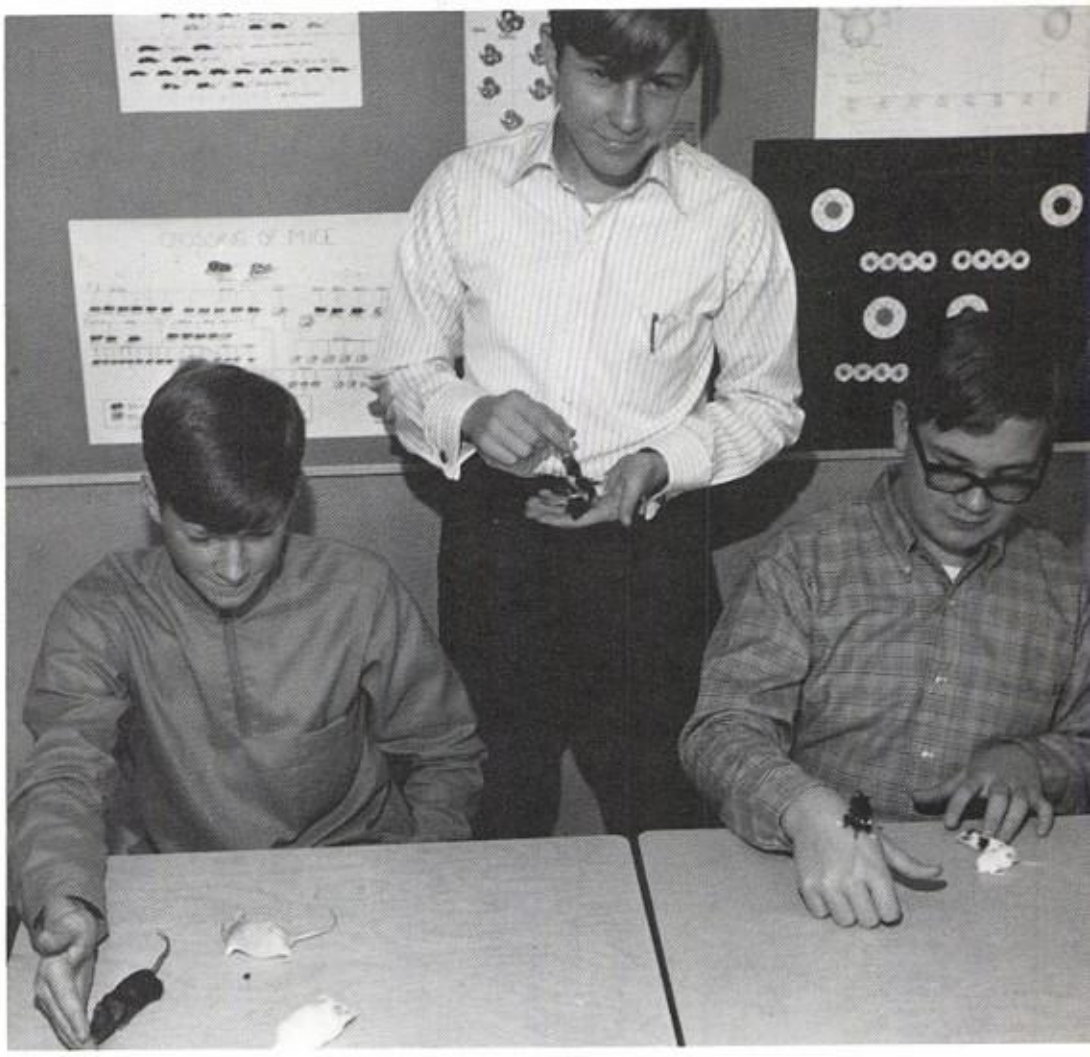
Curtis Reifsnyder and JoAnn Gundrum attempt to defy the laws of chemistry.



Barry Druckenmiller, Nan Ruth, and Brian Balthaser test the tensile strength of an aluminum wire in the physics lab.

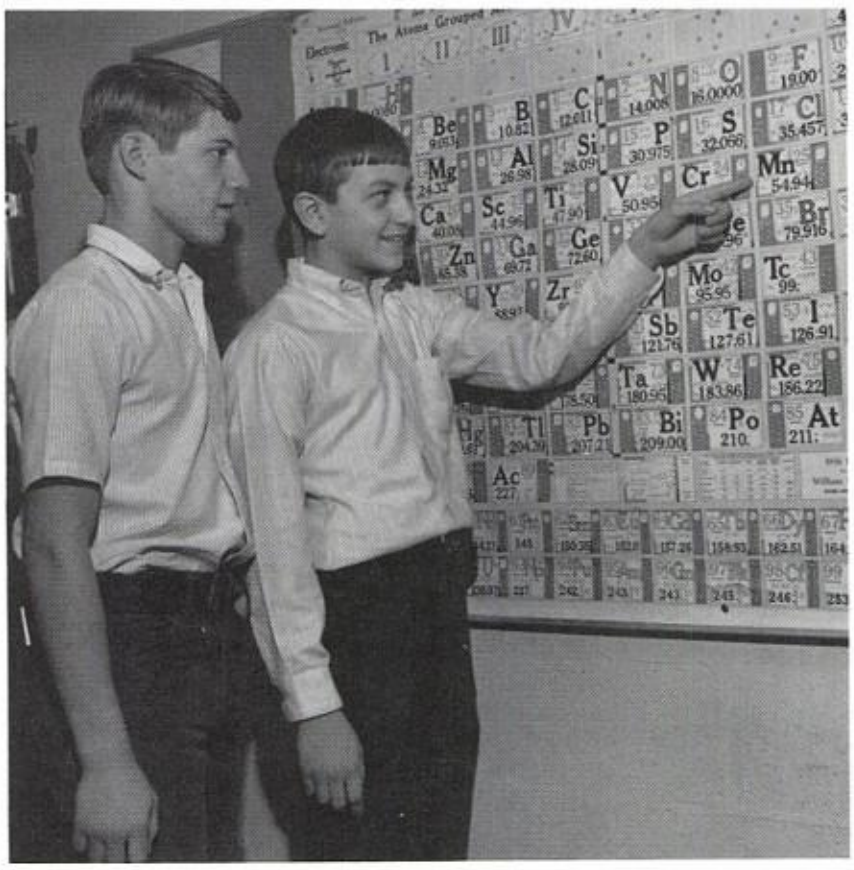
The Year Of The Moon Shot

While the astronauts escaped the earth's gravity and orbited the moon, Weiser's scientists researched more down to earth subjects.

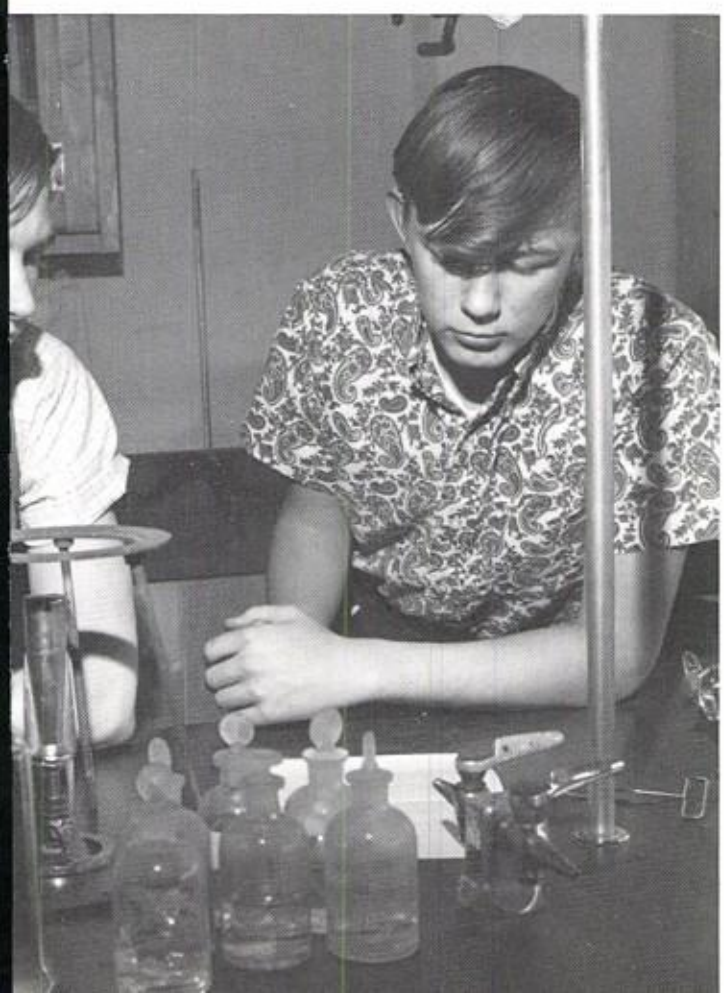


Randy Lafollette, Tom Troutman, and John May display the results of a profitable match.

Mark Davis, Carol Krick, and Jeff Boyer watch as Mr. Gosch demonstrates an experiment in natural science.

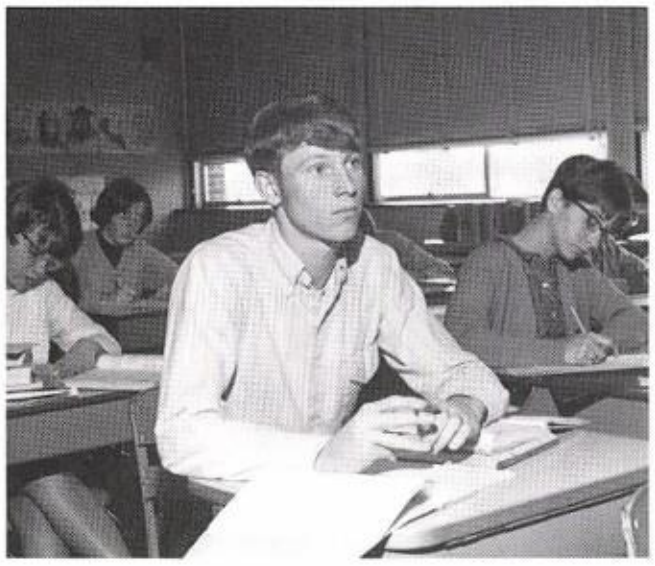


Fred Schlappich and Mark Yocum discuss the physical properties of manganese.



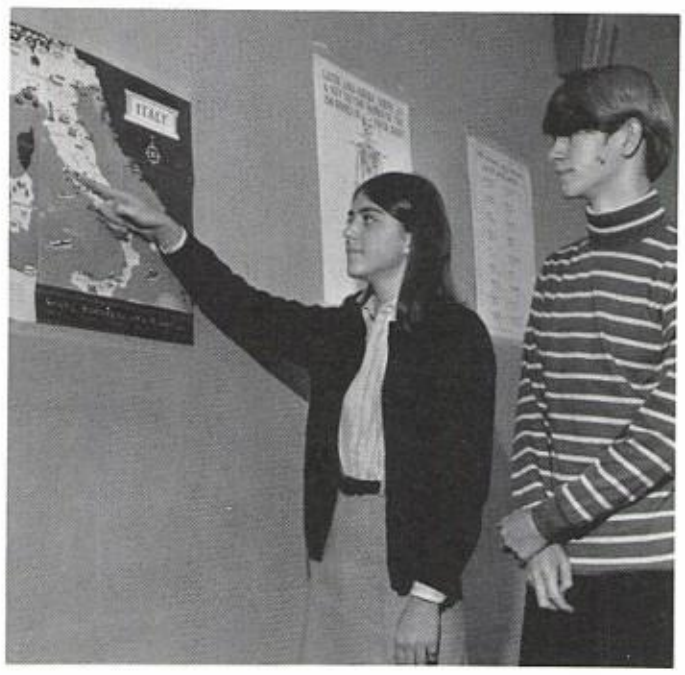
Scott Chelius and Dale Rhine study the procedure before beginning the experiment.

Greg Yiengst pays close attention to Frau Poch's lecture so he can take good notes.



Silhouetted against an autumn sky, Jane Eshbach and Ronald Miller take a break from translations and conjugations to give us this appropriate pose.

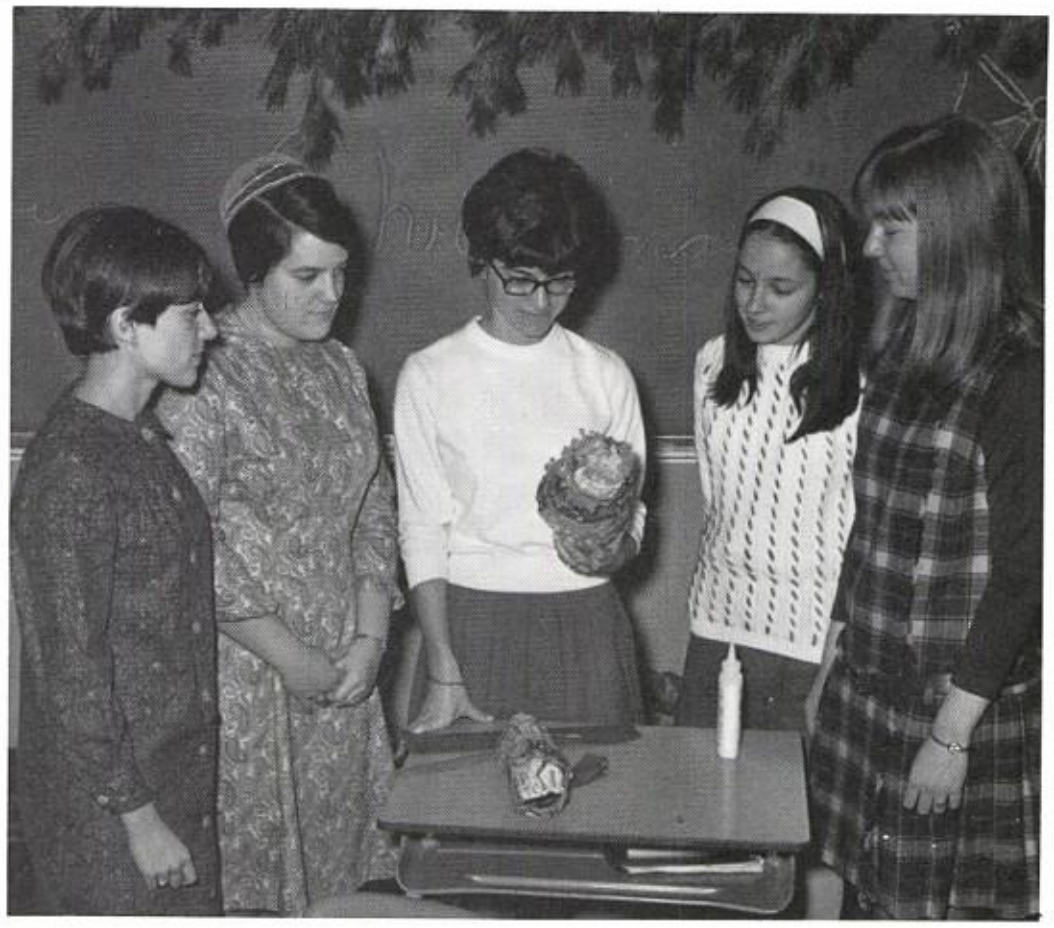
The top three sections of seventh and eighth grades are given German under the direction of Mrs. Poch. Mark Unger attempts to unravel the mysteries of conjugations.



A map of modern Italy helps Cindy Wolf point out Rome and the surrounding cities to Dennis Bond.

The Christmas party the German IV students had will long be remembered. This is the first class ever to have completed ten years of German. Pictured are seniors Susie Loy, Bob Garlin, Dave Snyder, and Susie Renninger.

Miss Nagle helps Jane Long, Linda Martin, Marcia Maurer, and Jill Lockart make miniature pinatas for the Christmas party.

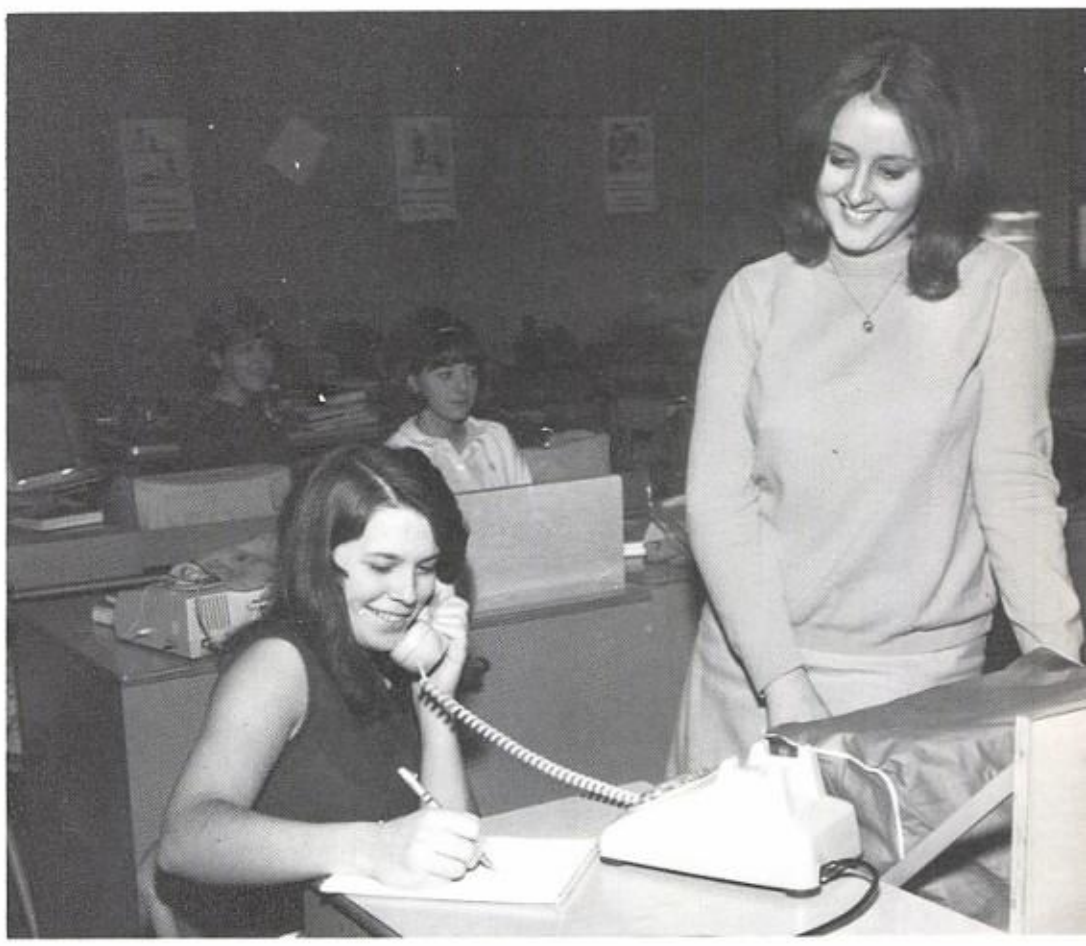


Language Courses Emphasize Culture

Linda Franck and Roberta Eiceman sell school items to Doreen Bernhard and Karin Buchter at the FBLA-sponsored school store.

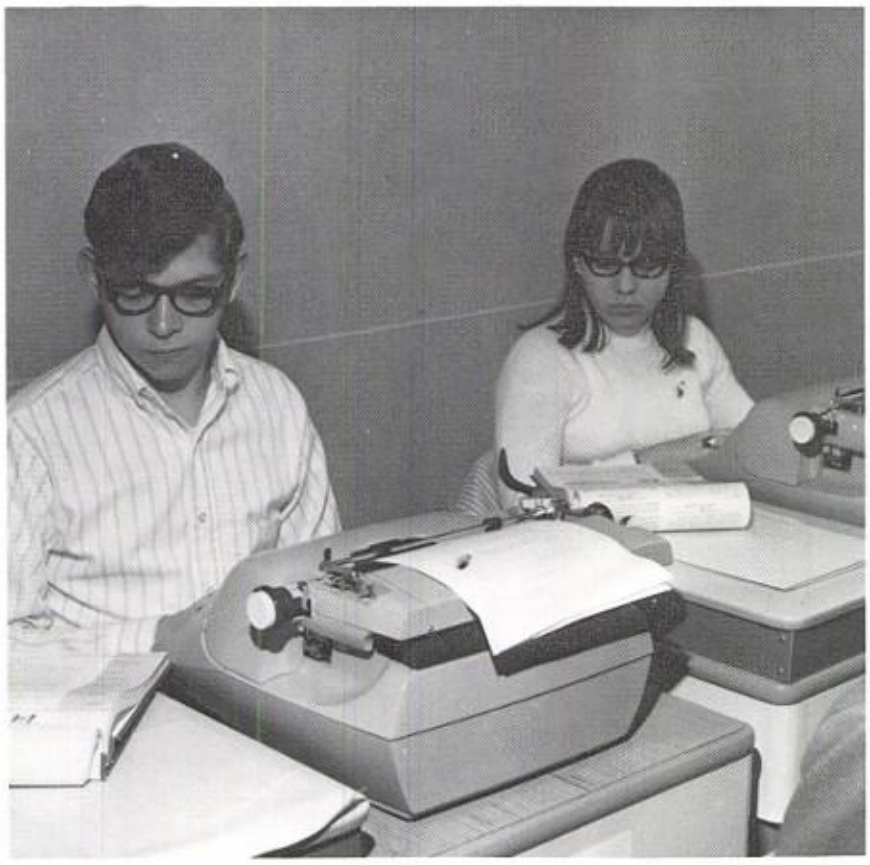
Coni Bailey prepares the mimeograph machine for Carol Leibig's stencil.

Mrs. Miller New Department Chairman



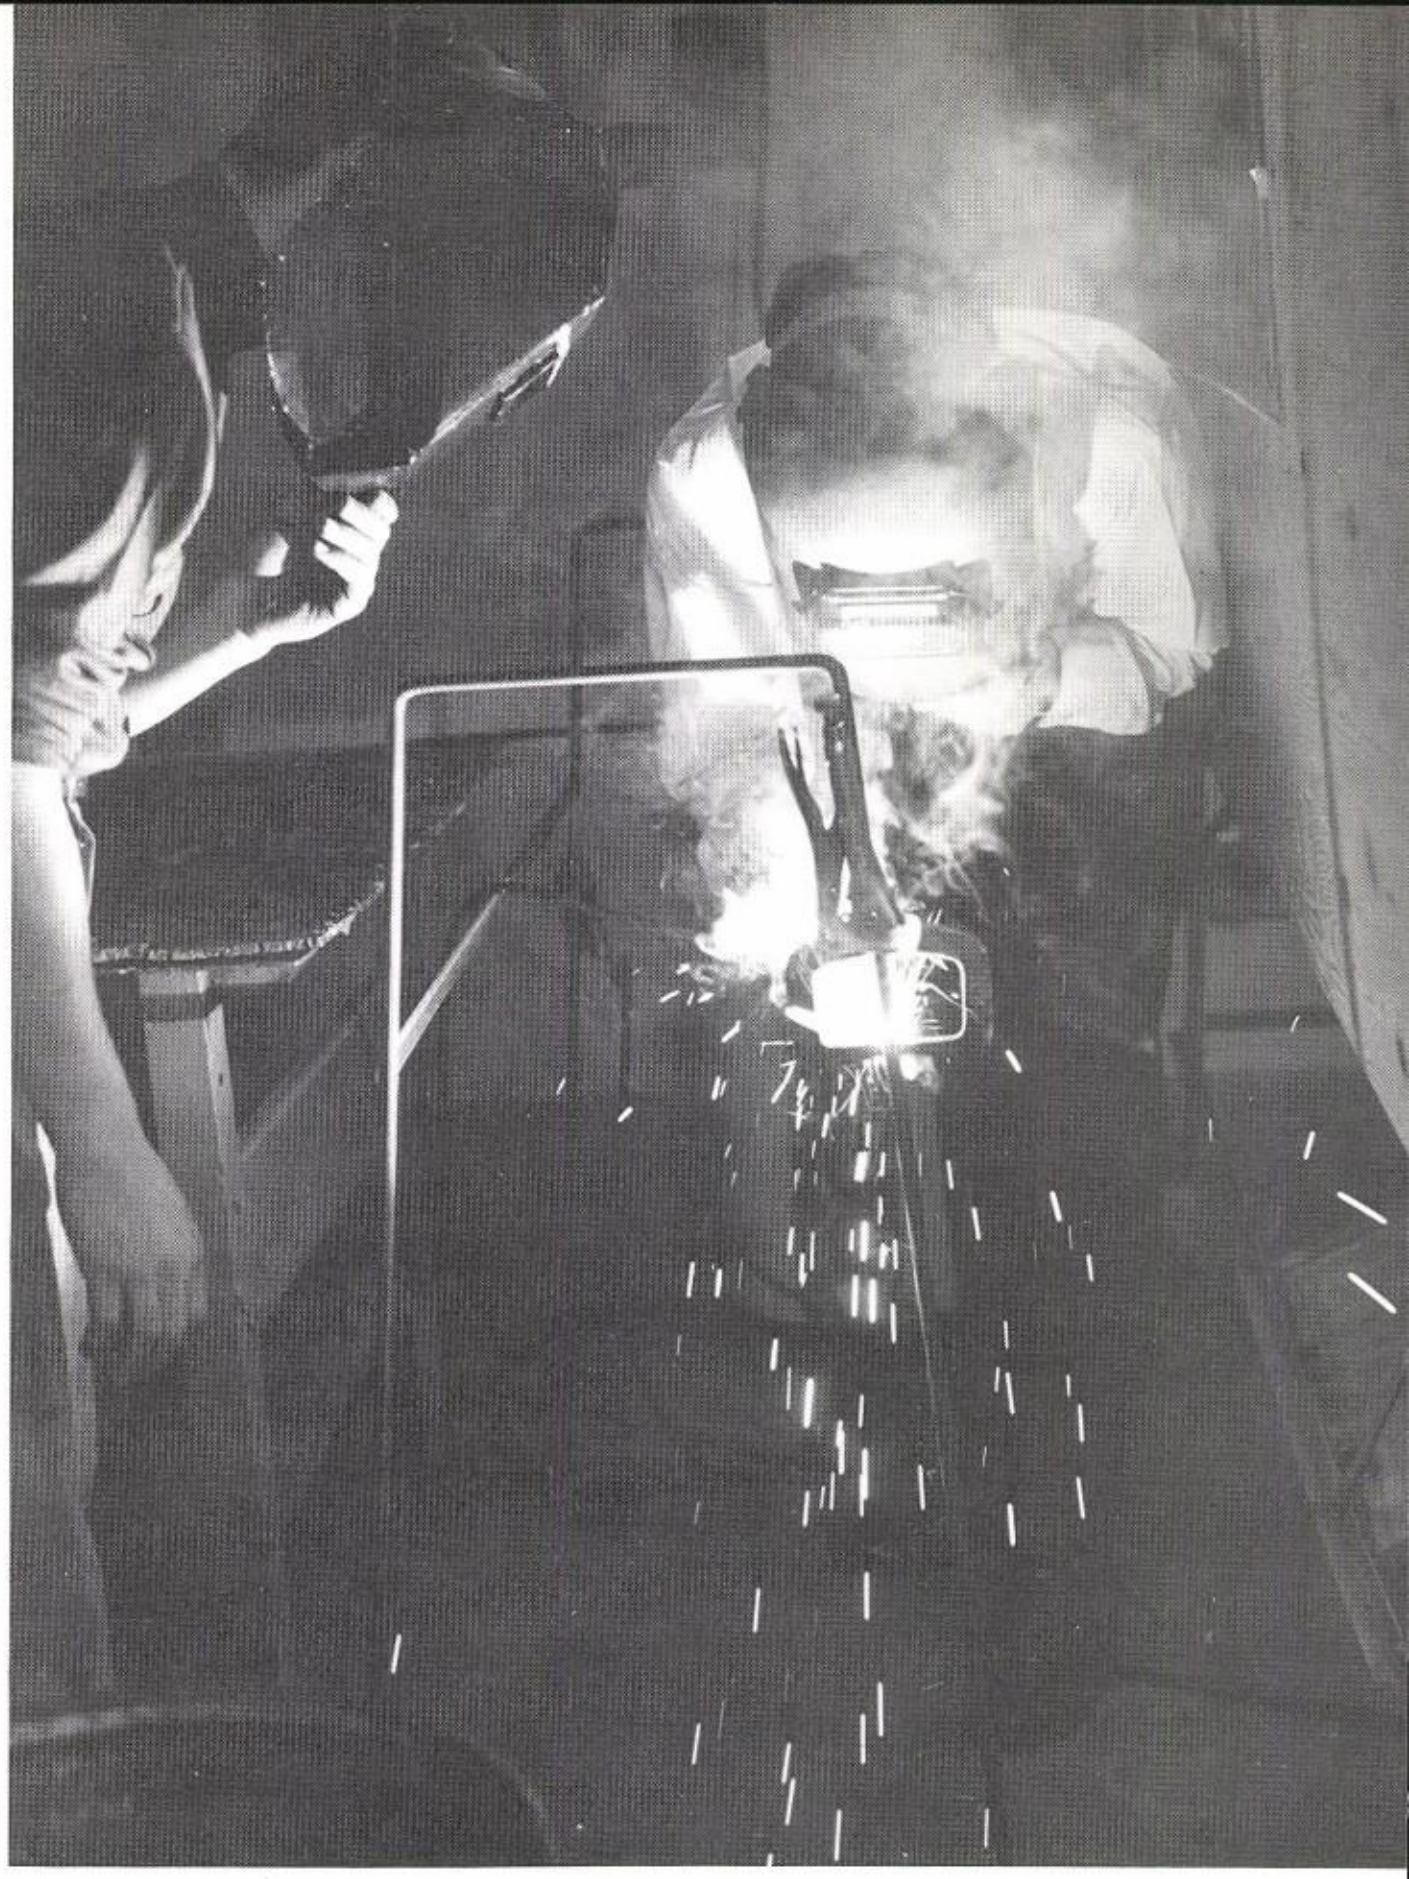
Bev Ulrich demonstrates good telephone habits for Connie Edgar.

Without so much as a glance at the keys, Michael Ebert and Cindy Zimmerman practice typing.

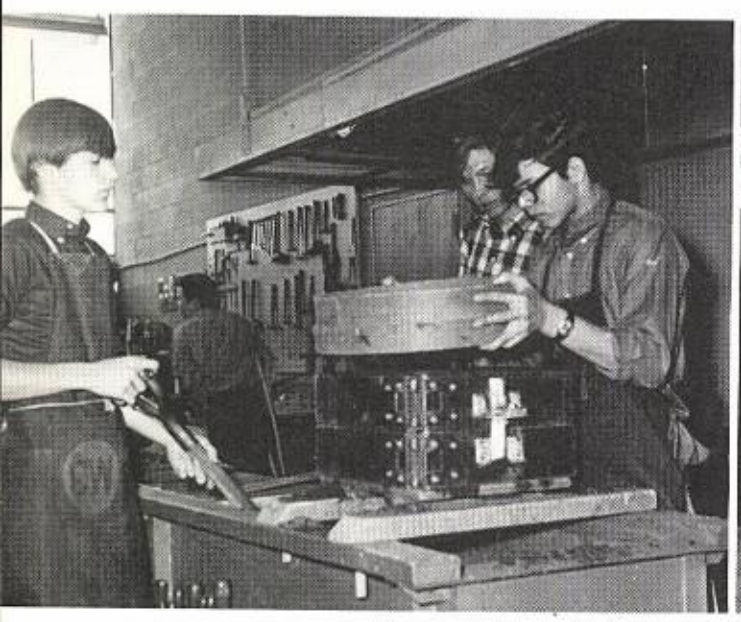


Donna Auman takes a message for her boss over the telephone.

In typing class the future secretaries perfect their typing and increase their speed.

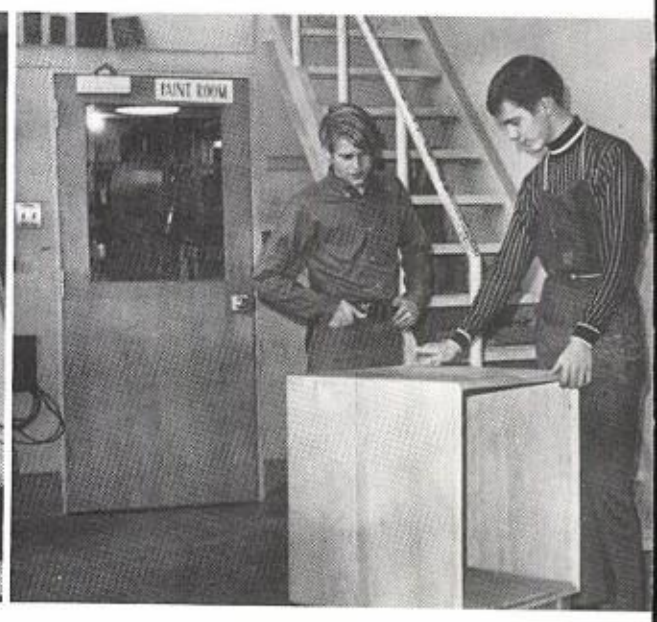


The fascinating art of welding is learned by all I.A. students



Fishburn helps Feeny with his foundry work.

Lockart and Lengel complete a grade 7 required project.

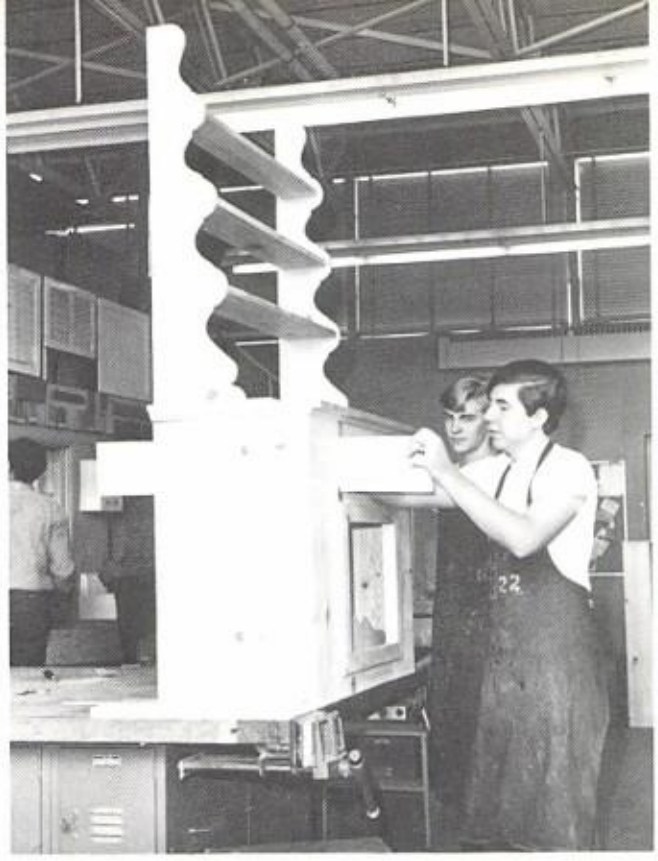


Kiphorn admires Wolf's stereo cabinet.

Some Changes In Industrial Arts Area.

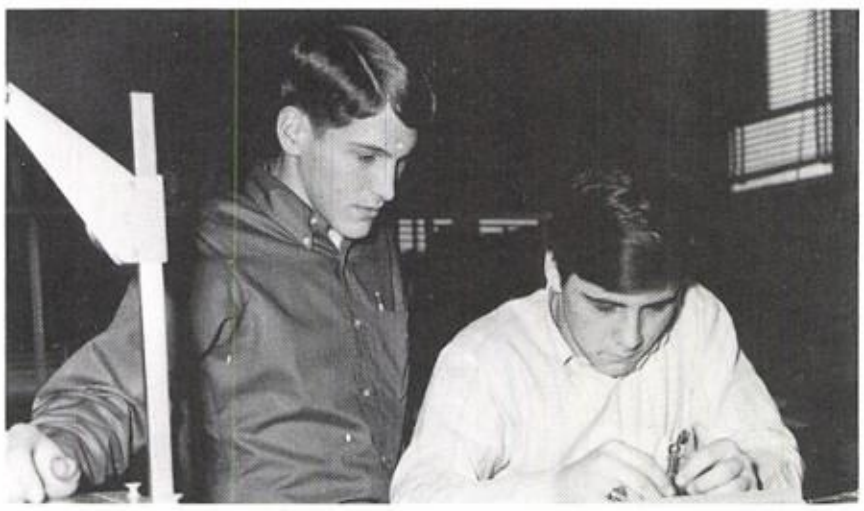
The opening of the Technical Schools of the county caused some change in the Industrial Arts program. Grades 10 and 12 were combined into one class. The course changed slightly.

Mr. Anthony, the metal shop teacher, left in mid-year and was replaced by Mr. Logan, then by the permanent new teacher Mr. Loose.

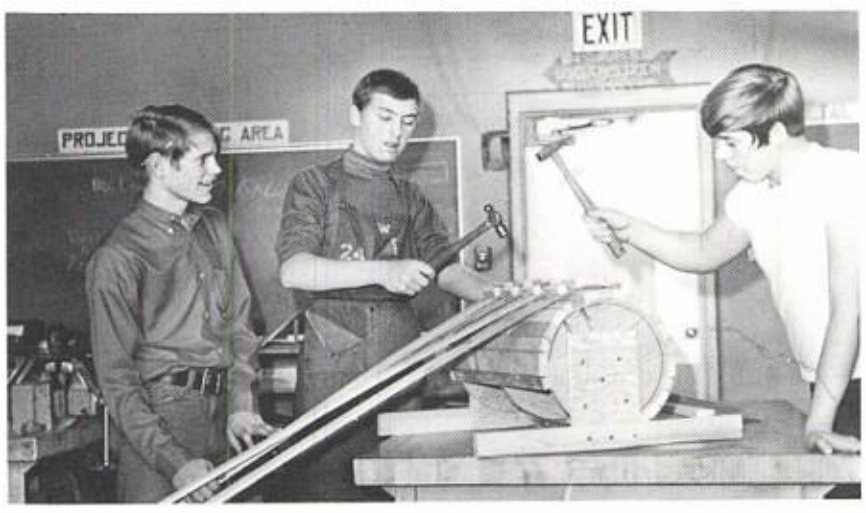


Druckemiller examines Ulrich's cabinet.

Werner and LaRose rushing to meet deadline set by Mr. Loose!

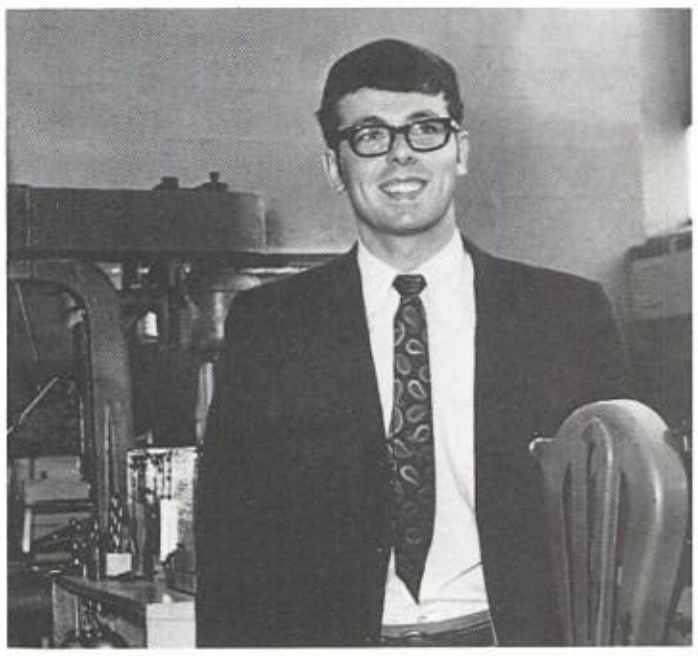


Groff instructs Fox on the spinning lathe.



Schaeffer's toboggan gets help from Kiphorn and Hummel.

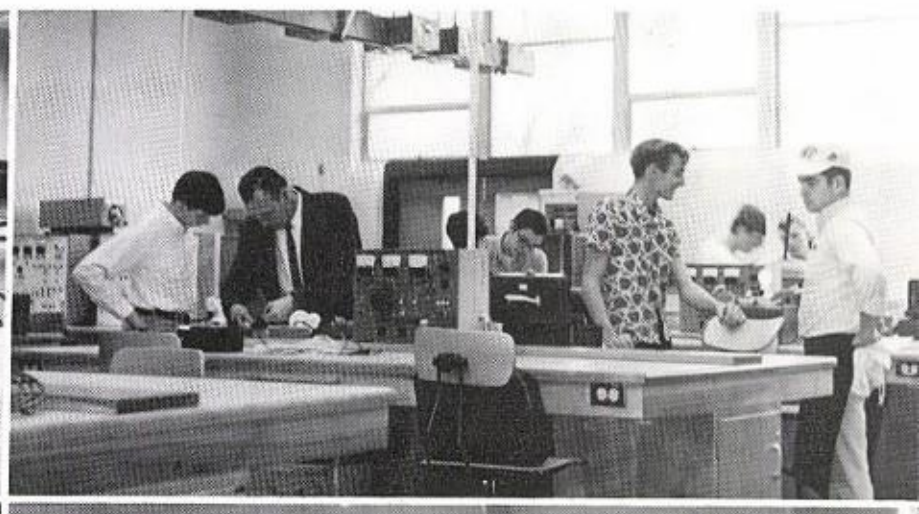
Grade 7 is intent on Mr. Gibson's lecture on hand saws.

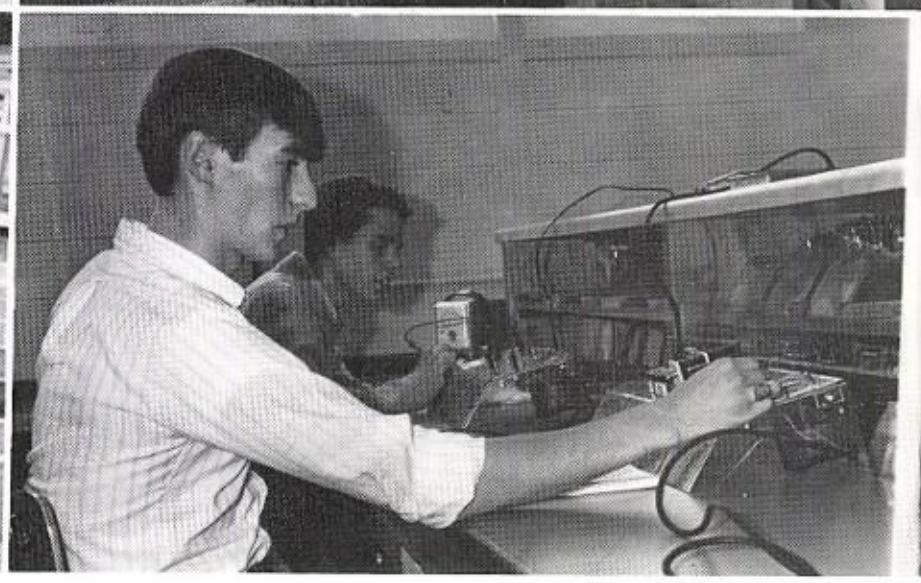


Mr. Thomas Loose is the new metal shop instructor. Mr. Loose started his duties in January.

C. W. Gets 60 Students Into New Vo. Tech. School.

The 1968-69 school year brought new opportunities to the students of our area. Two Vocational Technical Schools opened for the first time. An East and a West school provided about 26 trades from appliance repair to welding. A total of 1190 students from 19 districts attended the $3,073,427 buildings. The cost of the schools is shared by all the districts attending. The future craftsman spend all afternoon at the center. Our school buses provide transportation.





Musser and Zettlemoyer in Material area. Weller and Marks busy at carpenter shop.

Don Evans in Appliance repair. Trupe and Layser make good at electronics.

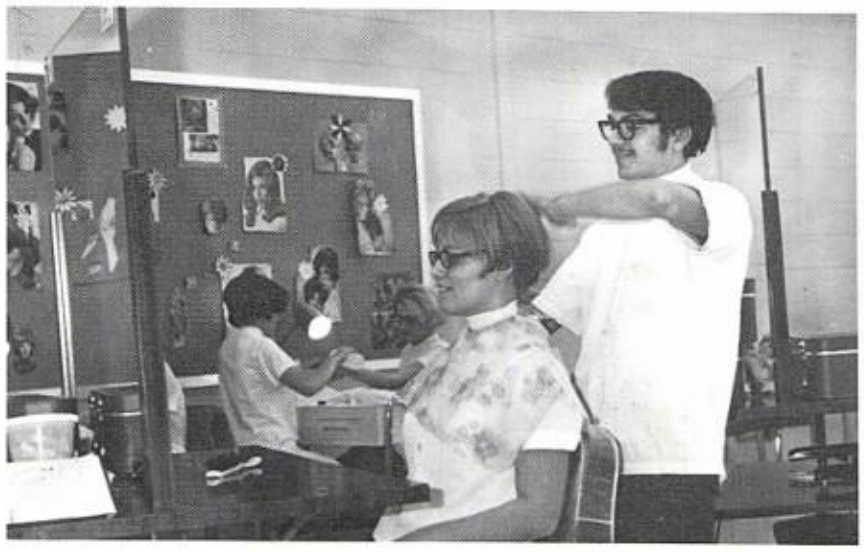
Berks Vocational Technical School located at Leesport Pa. about 25 minute bus ride from Conrad Weiser.

Long, Gerhert, Stricker, Koller in auto shop.

John Moyer, who conducted the Vo Tech yearbook photographer around, shows his desk in the Merchandising area.

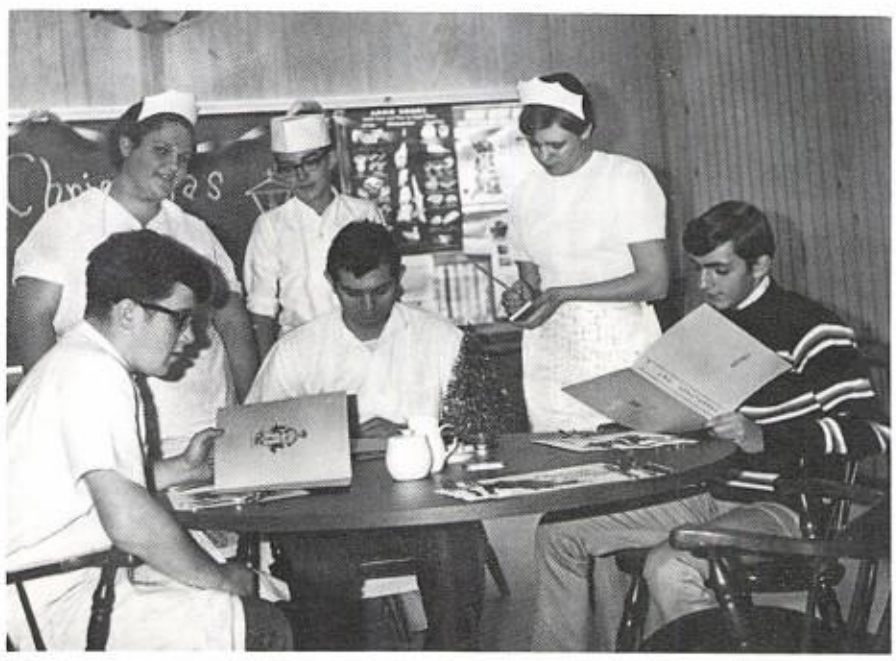
MOTOR VEHICLES--our yearbook theme!

Hatt and Kreitz prepare welding torch.

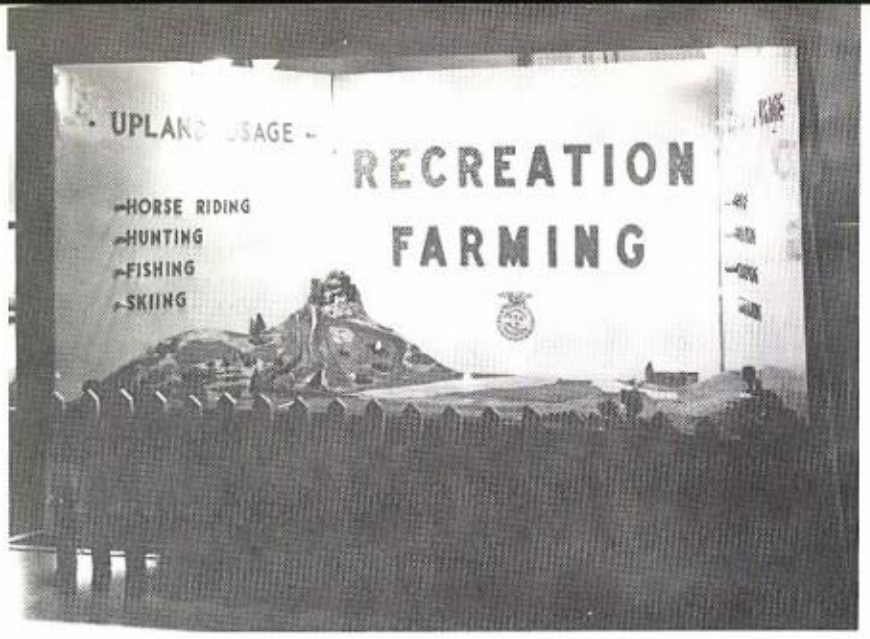


Ramaldo creates a new hair style for Debbie.

Shanaman and Zechman enjoy printing area.



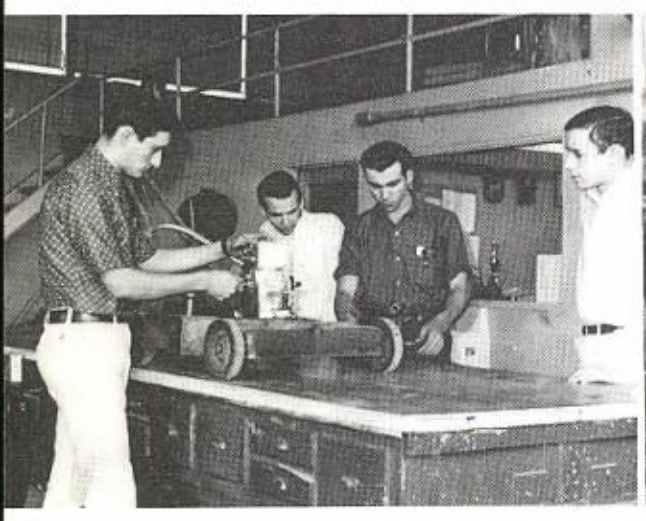
Bleinstein, Eckert, and Sharar in the foods area about to get some goodies for Darkas, Merkey, and John Moyer. (Steaks, medium well!!!--perhaps?)

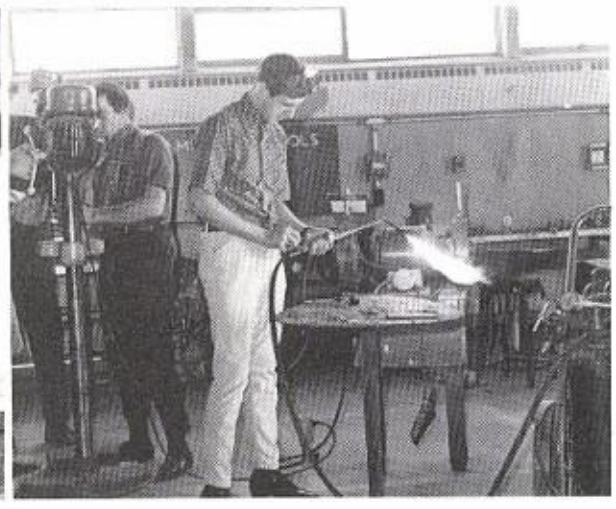


left--A prize winning farm display.

Stricker and Webber study computer sheet with Mr. Barrett

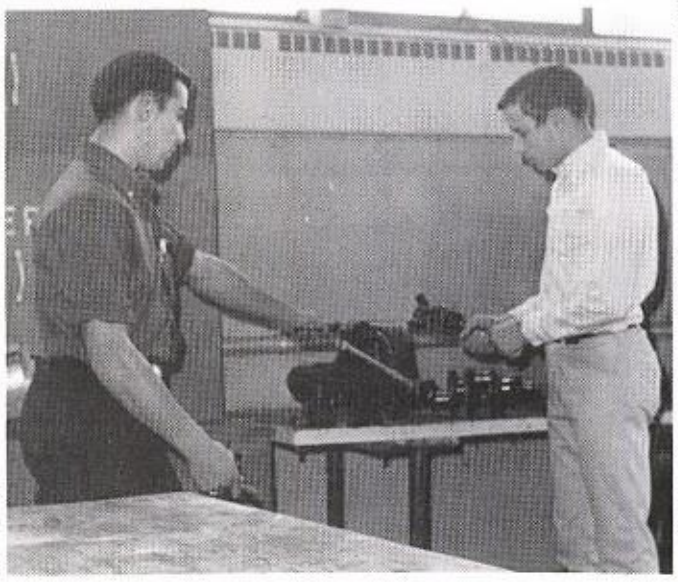
Reich, Knauer, and Himmelberger finish up their saw horses, a required farm shop project.





Small motors and machine repair courses are required.

Writing reports on projects takes much time.



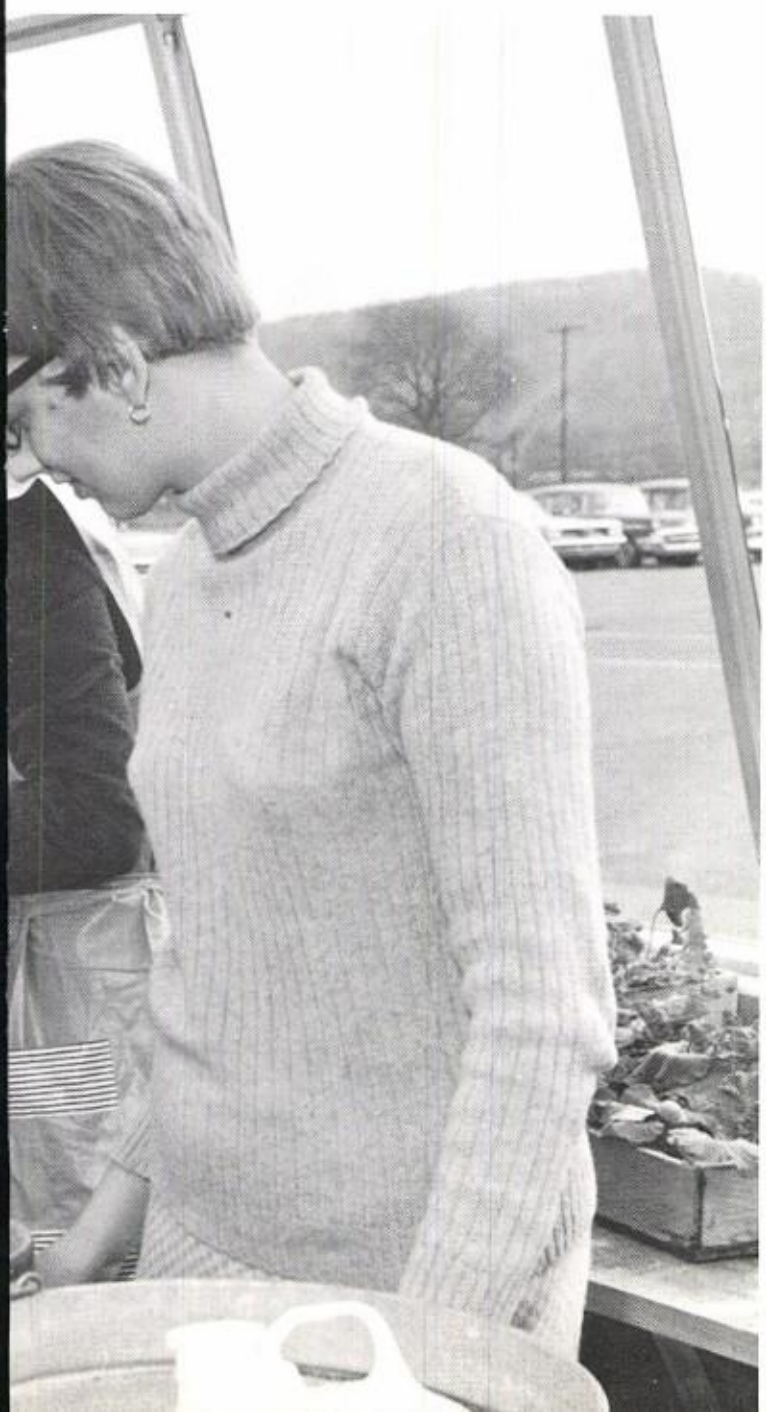
Reber and Stricker doing plumbing work.

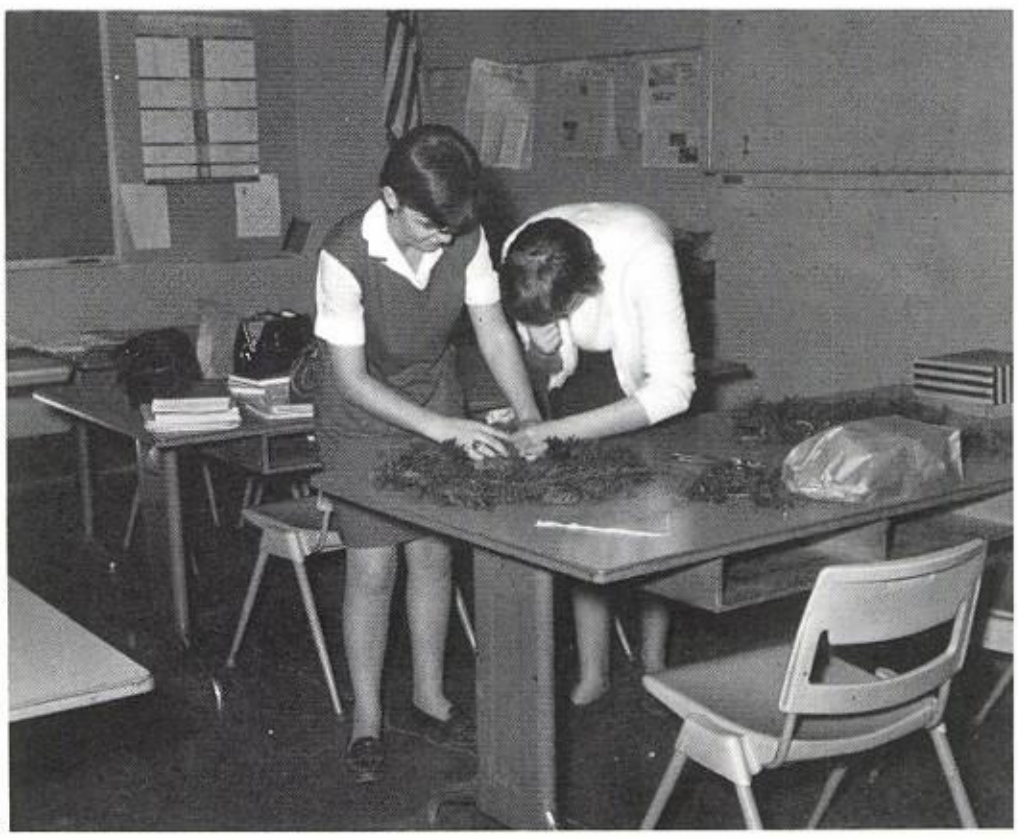
Girls, Computer System, And New Teacher Added To Vo-Ag Course

The agriculture course has introduced several innovations in its effort to keep abreast of the times. Horticulture was offered for the first time this year. The computer of Penn State was implemented in the aiding of students with their farm work.

Jack Keener and Michael Hartman proceed with their farm shop project.

Linda Martin, one of several girls to enroll in the Ag program, examines Christmas wreaths.



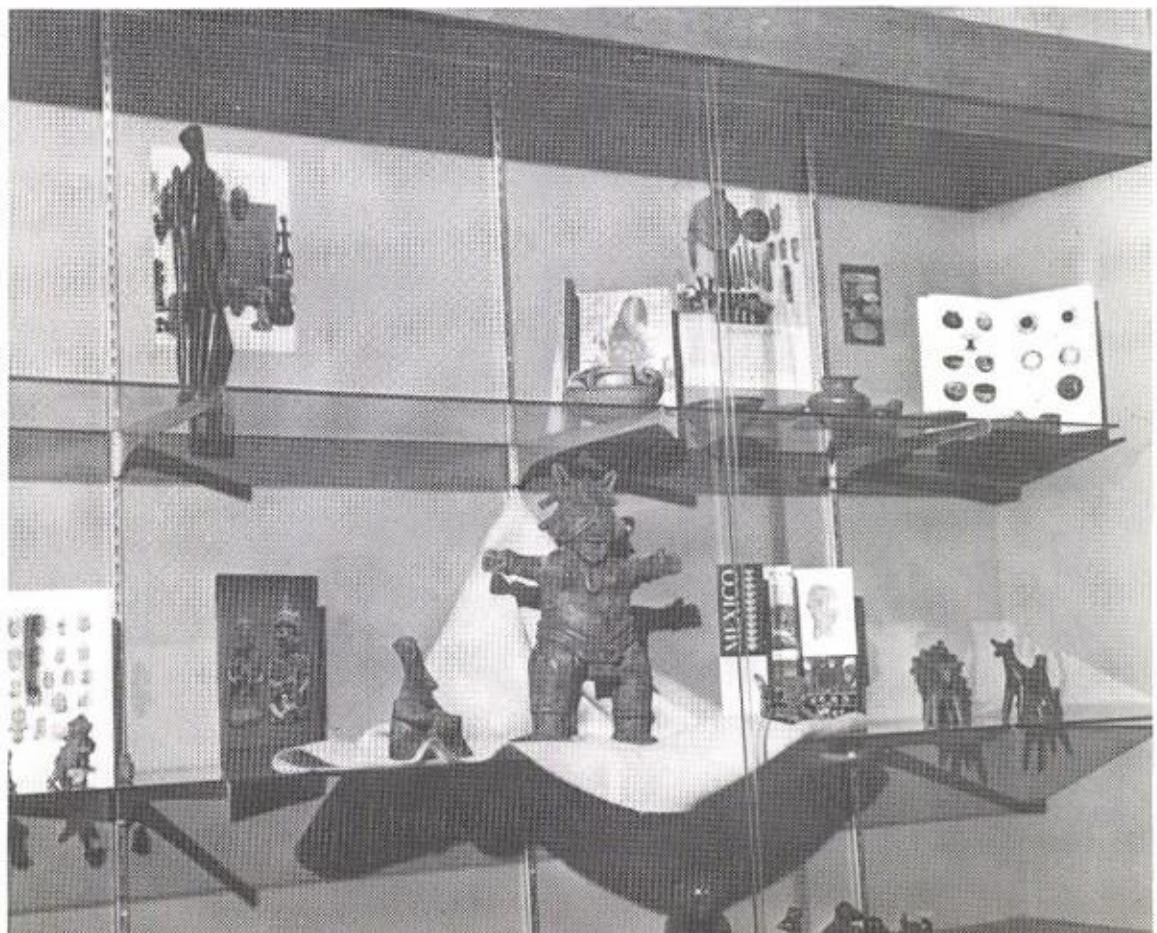


Making natural greens into wreaths for the Christmas season provided a fine experience for the girls in the horticulture course.

Left, Mr. Royer, the new teacher this term, helps Martin and Lape with their daily chore of caring for the plants in the new greenhouse.

Andy Trusky, John Wenrich, and John White experiment with sculpture.

Art Department Adds New Teacher And Room.



Exotic art sculptures and pictures provide an interesting display.

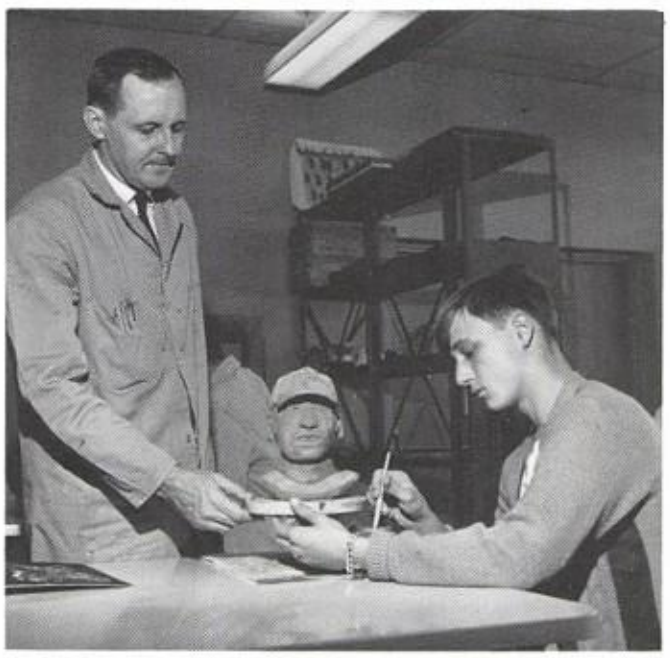
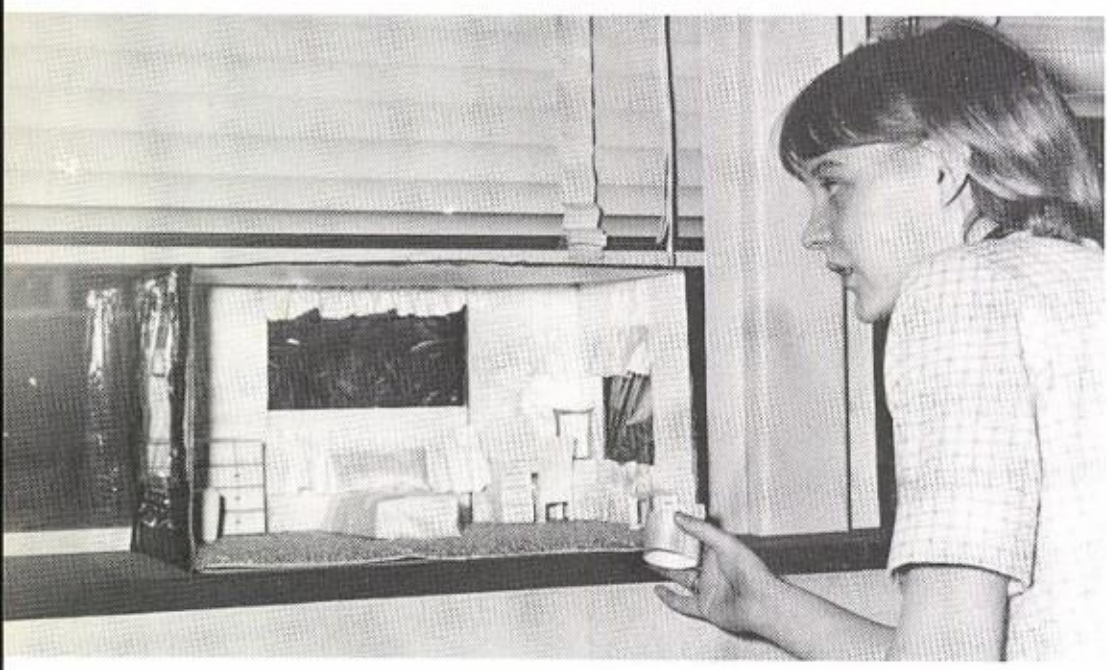
Brenda Heller arranges some flowers for an oil painting during Mr. Kuczala's ninth grade class.

This bust of a baseball player, done by Gary Fessler, is getting its final check by Mr. Alexander before it enters the kiln.

Making pottery dishes is one of Sue Speck's favorite hobbies.



Homemakers Acquire Versatile Skills



Interior decorating is one of the many subjects studied by Charlotte Bakerofskie as a Home-ec major.

Sherlyn Loeb wears the scarf she made while Patty Raihl admires her reflexion in the mirror.

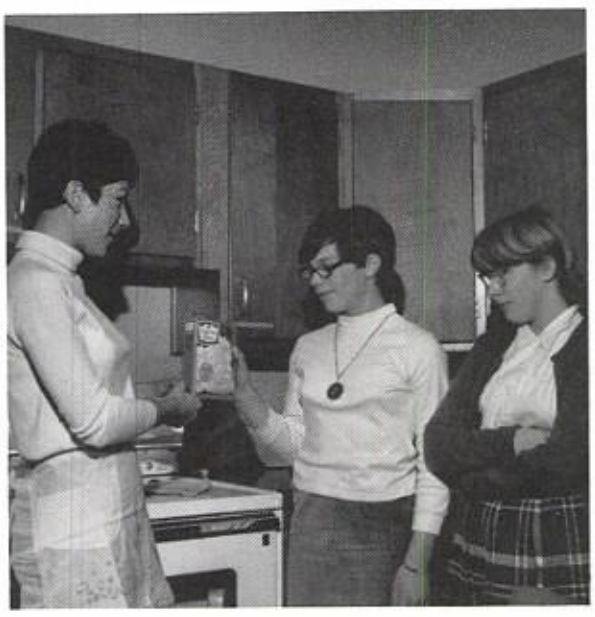
Seniors Marie Mease and Linda Martin have learne from Mrs. Grimes

Jane Stricker watches Sharon Wanner sew her zipper in her dress.

Under the watchful eye of Mrs. Grimes, Edna Martin and Beverly Sparks prepare some necessary cookie ingredients.

Chris Lutz and Melinda Moyer admire their latest accomplishment, a tray of chocolate chip cookies held by Peggy Mertz.

hat there is a echnique to be ollowed in filling dishwasher.



Miss Linda Di Maio discusses the many advantages of using pre-mix cakes with Marie Trusky and Sandra Long.

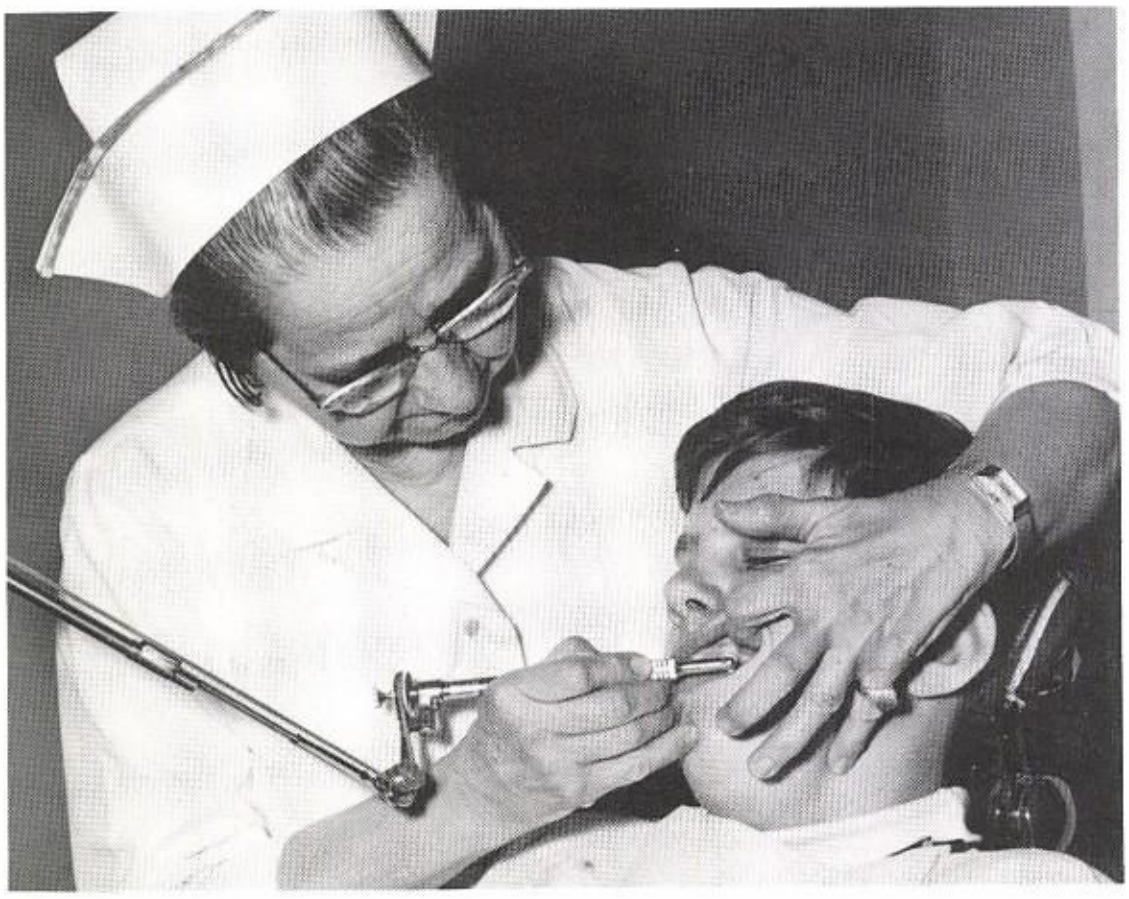
Mrs. Weidman helps seventh graders Pat Sheidy, Deena Raihl, Betsy Eisenbise, and Mary DeLong with their sewing problems.

The Flu Epidemic Kept The Nurse "Jumping" This Winter.

Everyone's eyes are checked at least once a year to make sure glasses aren't needed.

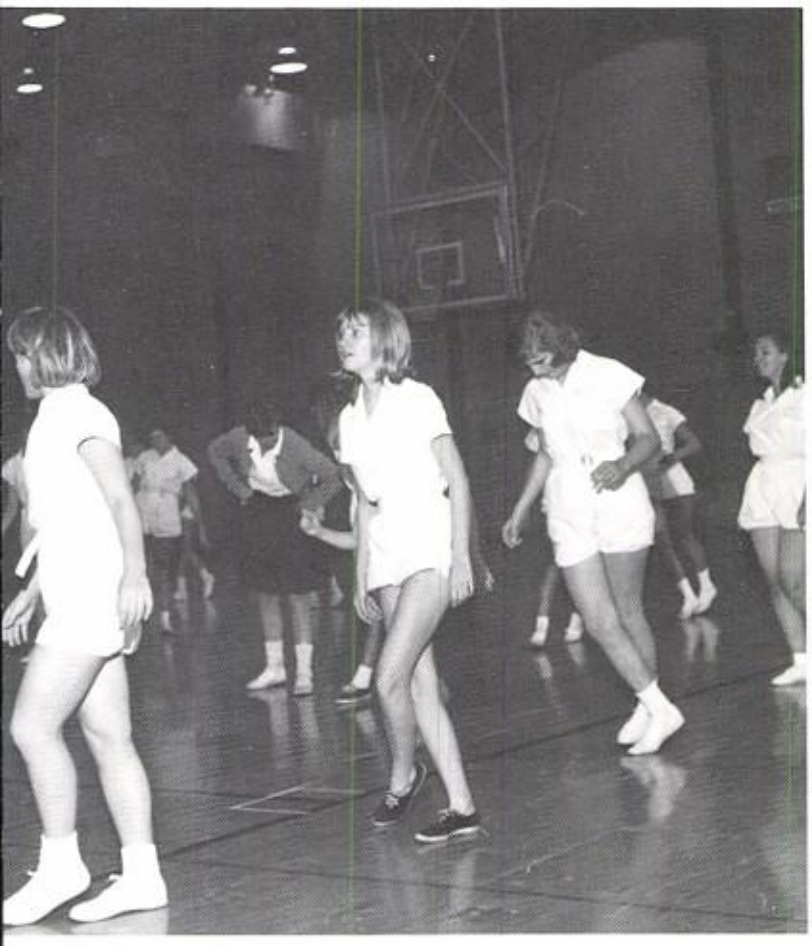
Mrs. Werner, the school nurse, checks Marianne Jenkins for a fever and checks her pulse.

Miss Hamaker, dental hygienist, puts the school's modern equipment to good use every year.

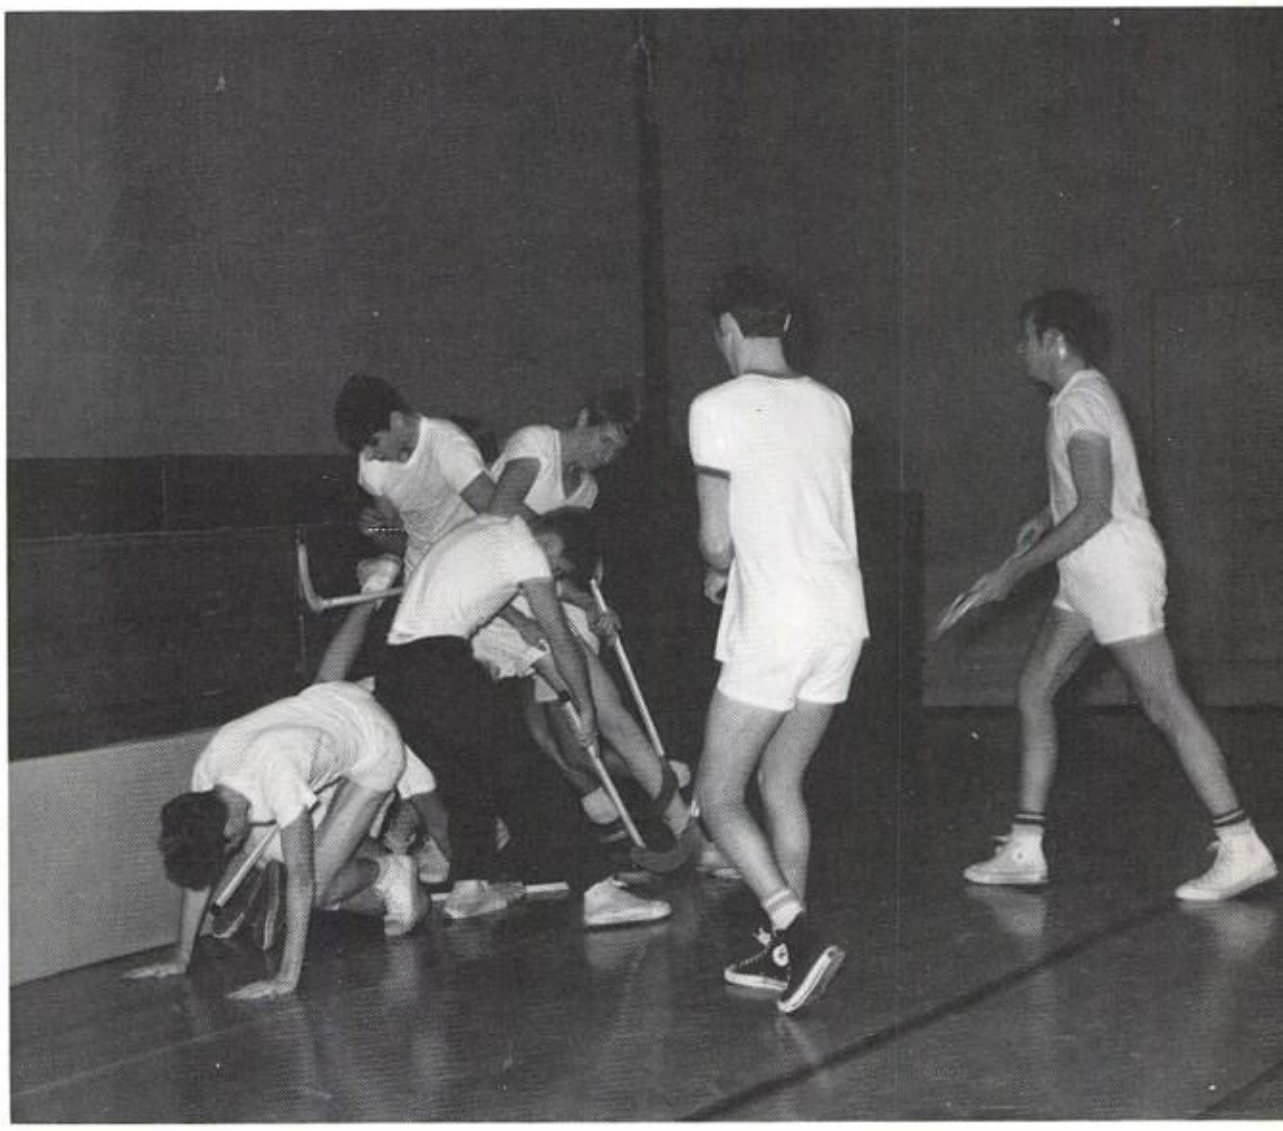


Craig Lutz awaits Miss Hamaker's services.

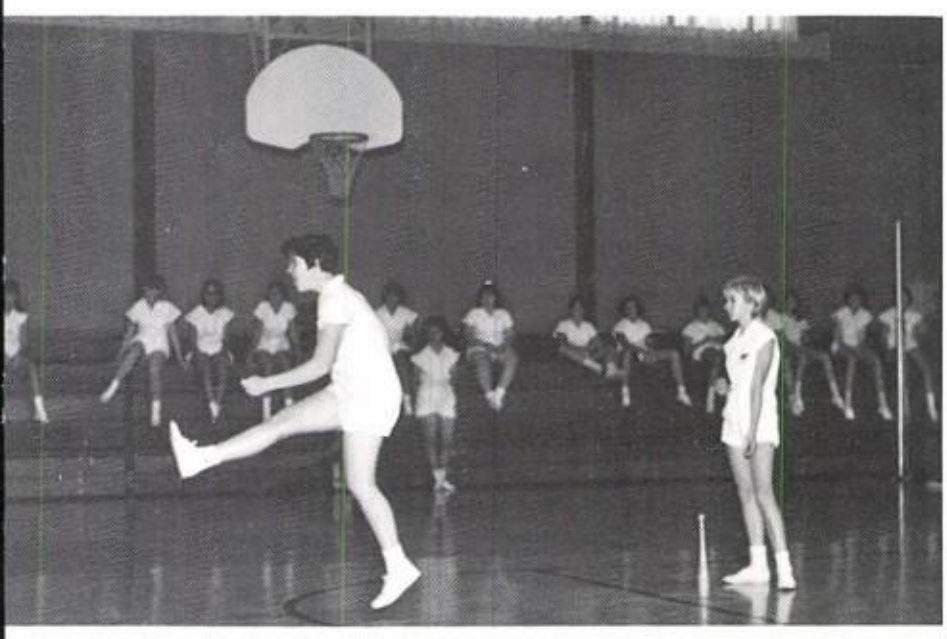
Two New Teachers Round Out Phys Ed Dept.



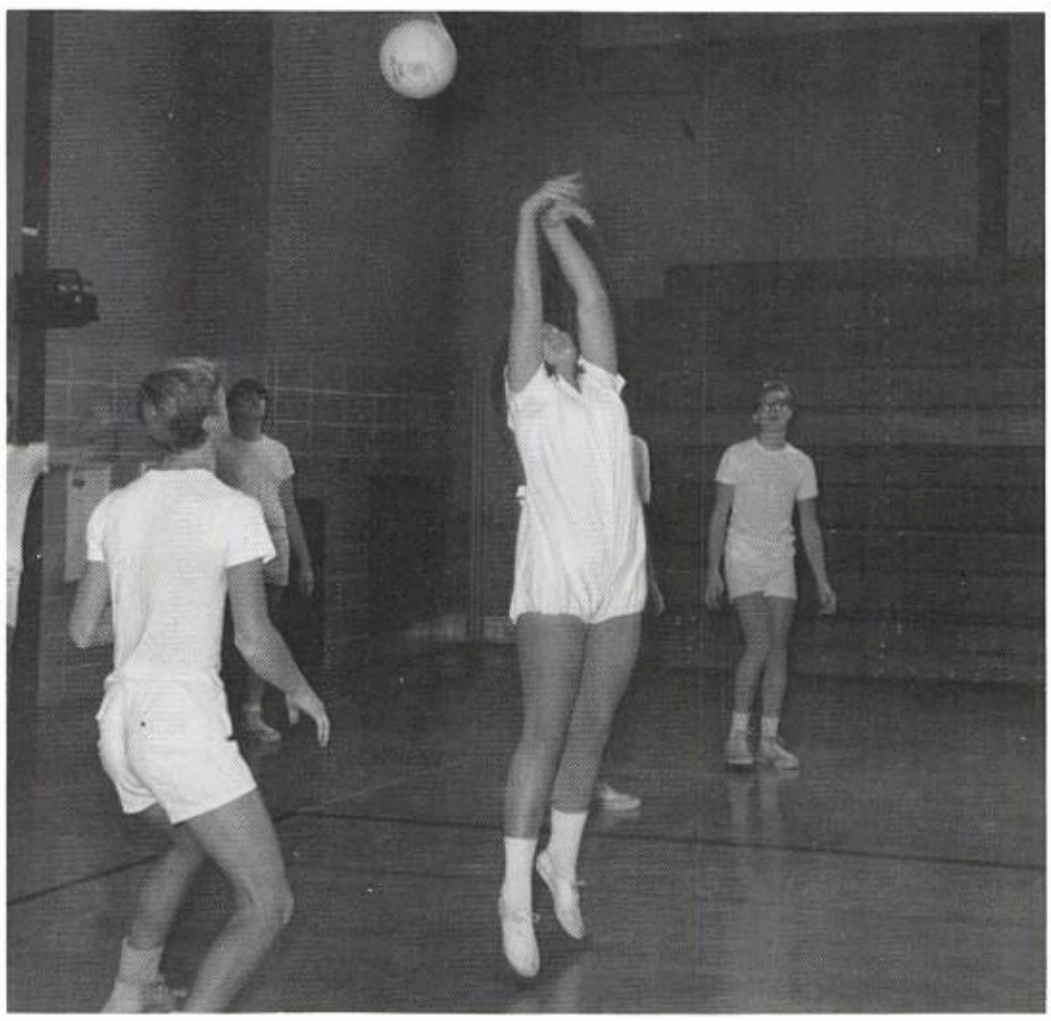
Coordination exercises add grace to Conrad Weiser female gym students.



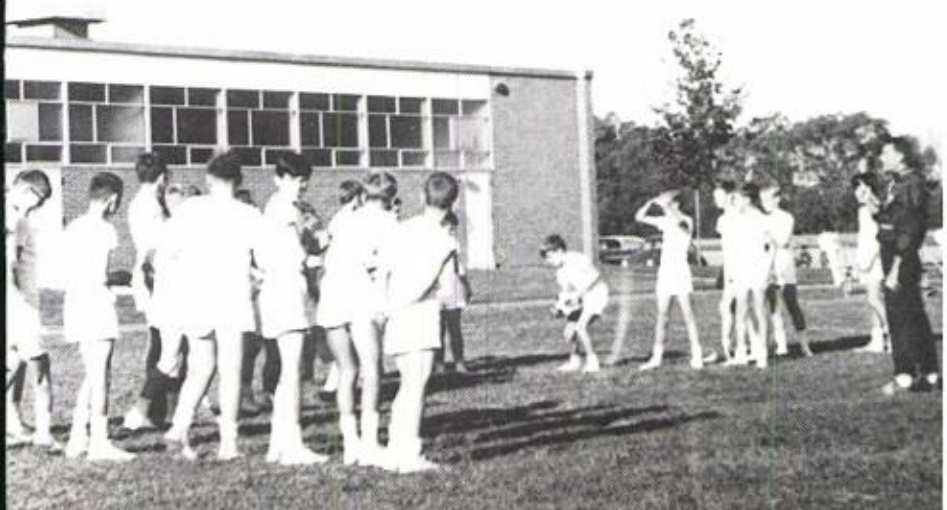
"Whoever has the hockey puck, please pass it out!" says Kerry Rentschler.



Indoor soccer is a favorite game of this girls' gym class.



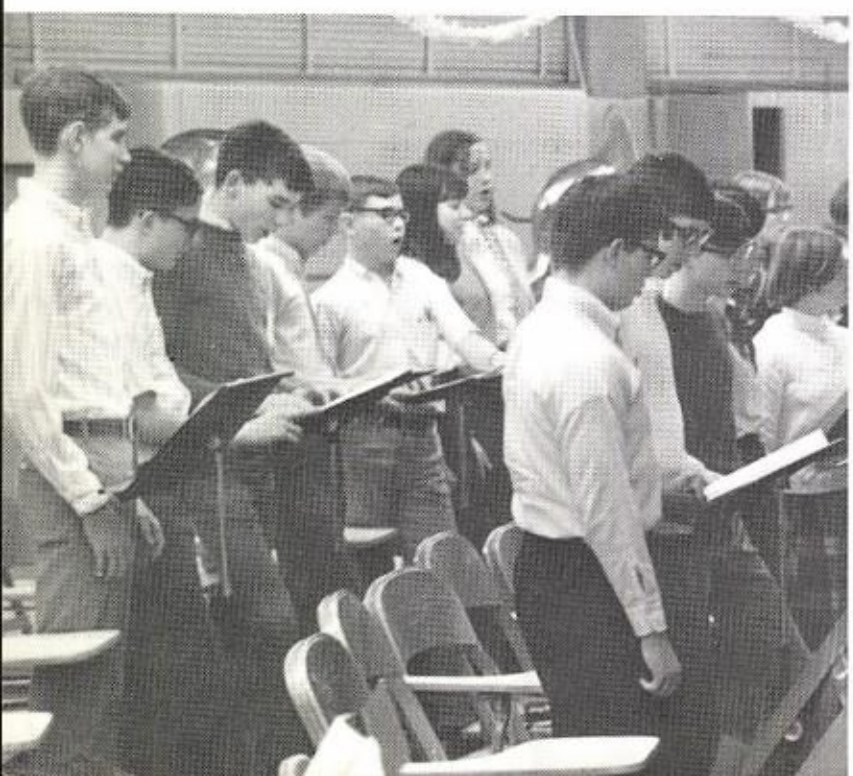
Co-ed volleyball requires more stamina than one thinks. Coordination and cooperation are the important factors for this game.



Outside, Mr. Hartranft teaches the boys the fundamentals of soccer.

"Baby Grand" Finally Comes To Music Dept.

Miss "M" plays the piano as "maestro" Dave Klopp conducts his classmates through a few Christmas carols.



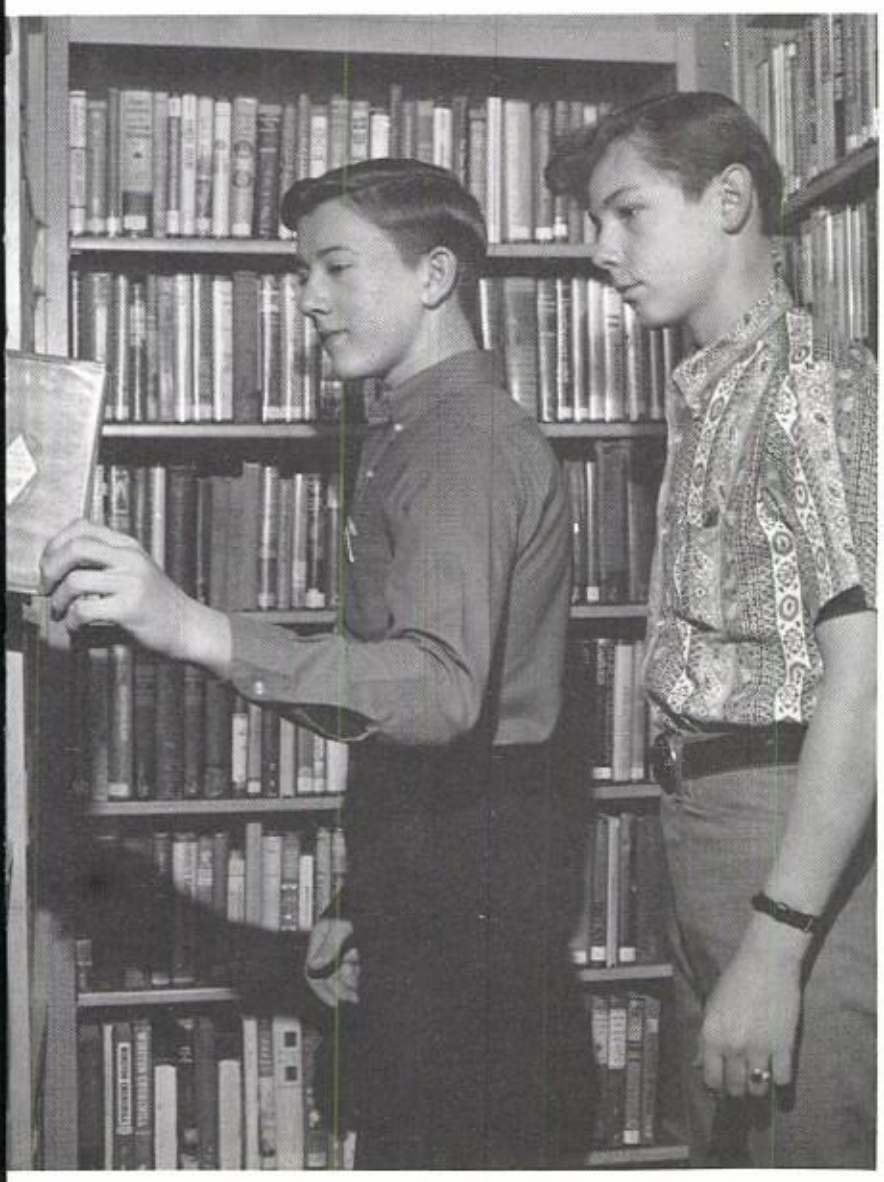
No matter what time of year it is, these ninth graders enjoy singing.

Up To Date Information—

Always Available In C.W. Library

The catalog cards are very useful. They give you information about any book easily and quickly.

Here is one book which has caught the attention of D. Werner and D. Basom.



A successful, annual book-fair is held in our library. Shown are some of the librarians preparing for the tea being held at this time.

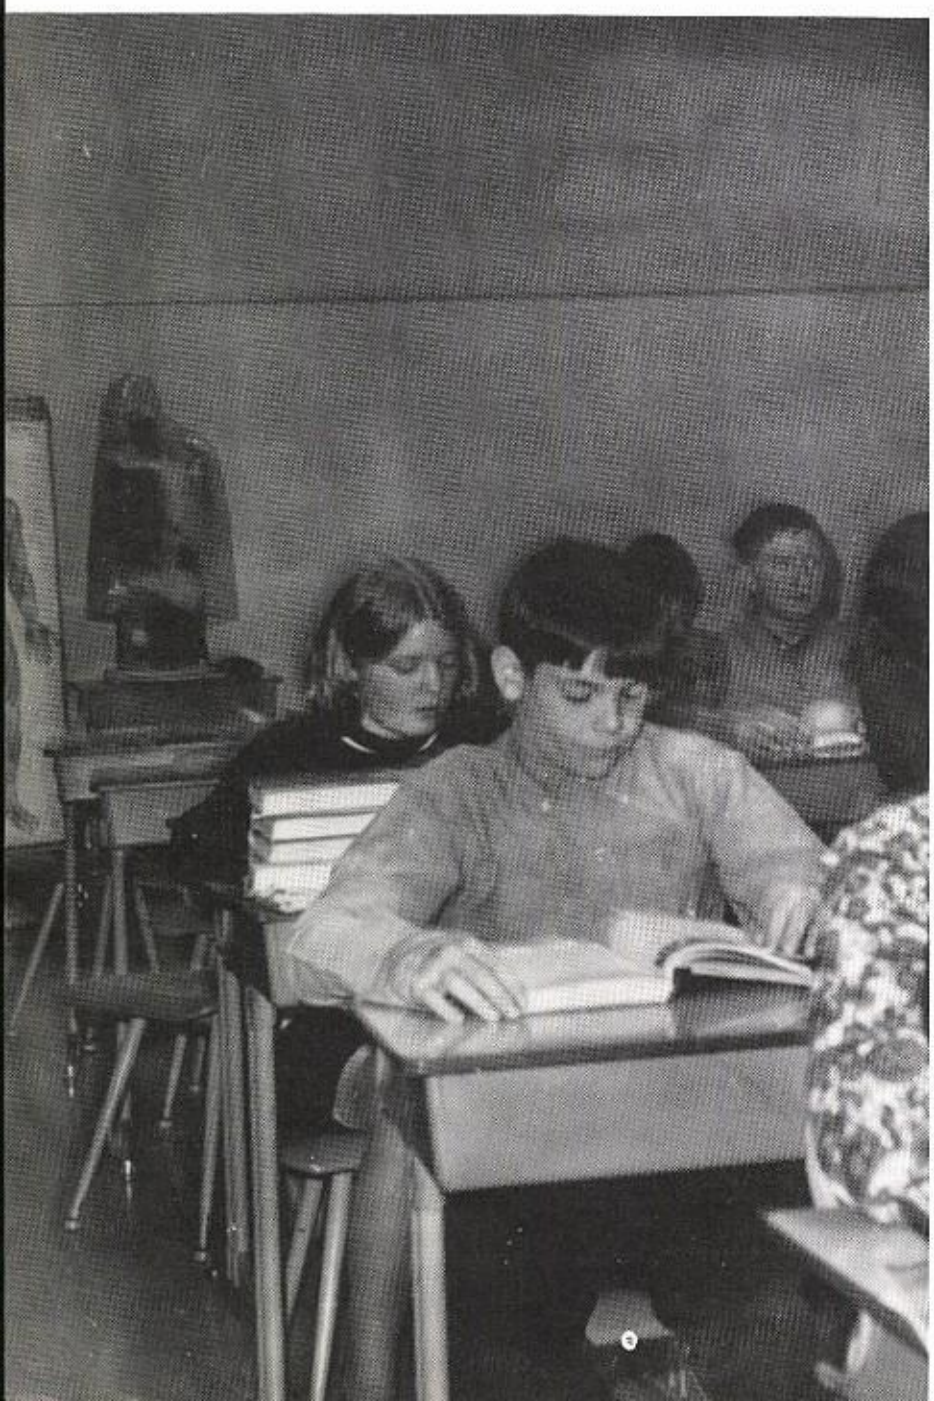
Mrs. Lahr talks to Andrea Stoudt about problems which may arise while attending the Vo-Tech Center.

Guidance Now, For Our Future Leaders

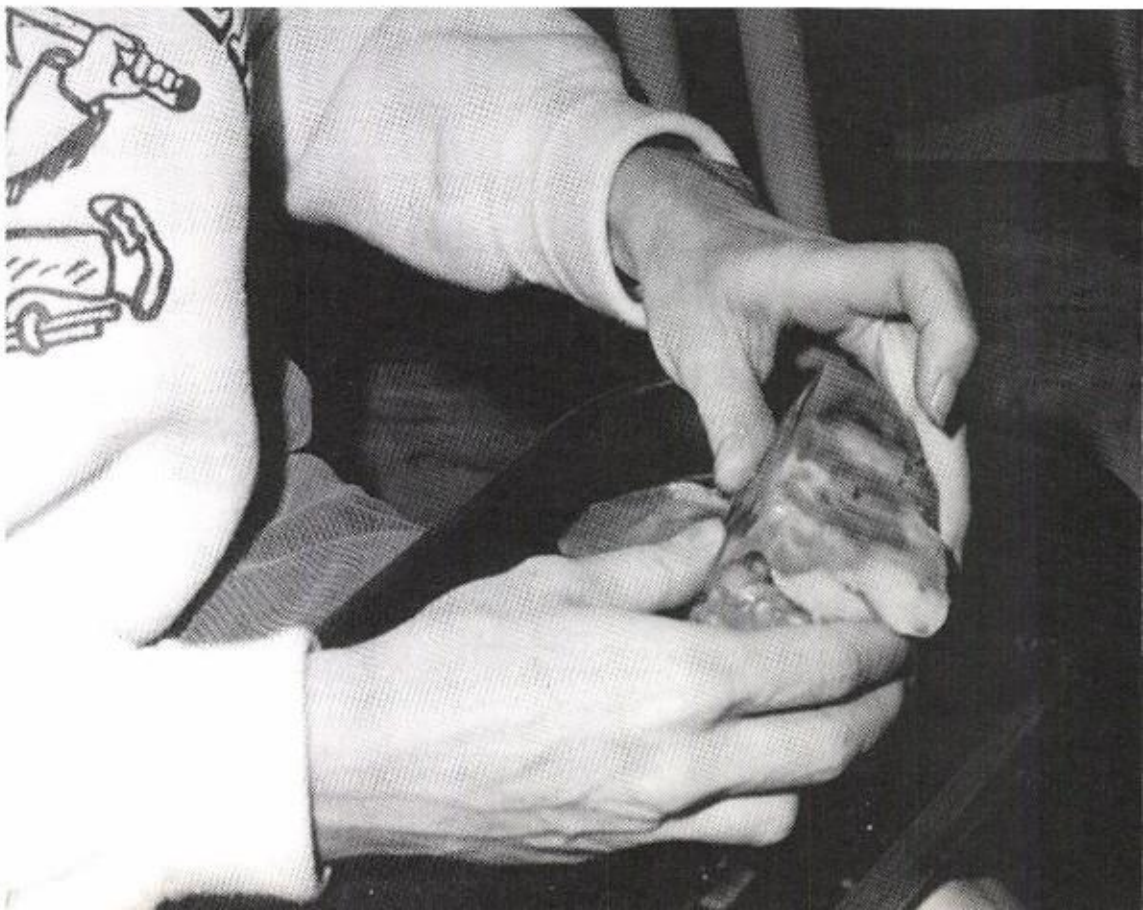
Mrs. Krott helps Karen Lutz plan her future college career at University of Pennsylvania.

Heart Transplants Impress C.W. Students

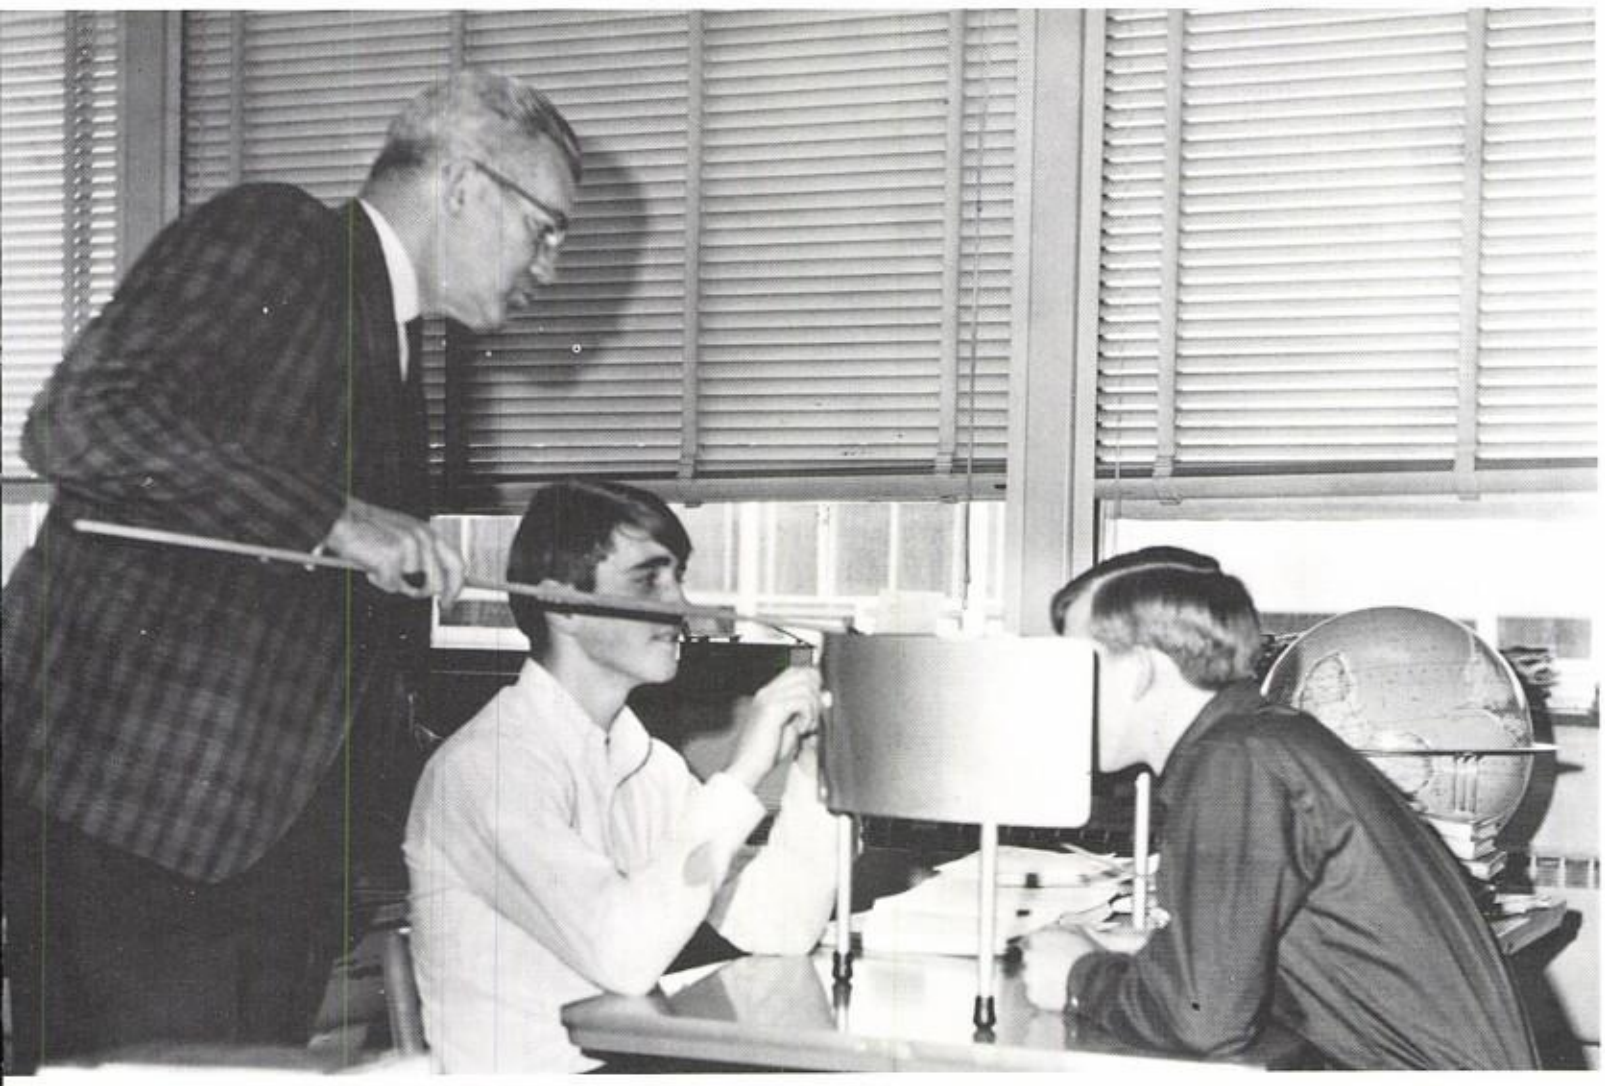
In health class students study about modern medical advances such as heart transplants.



Dissection of animal organs aids students to understand the human body better.



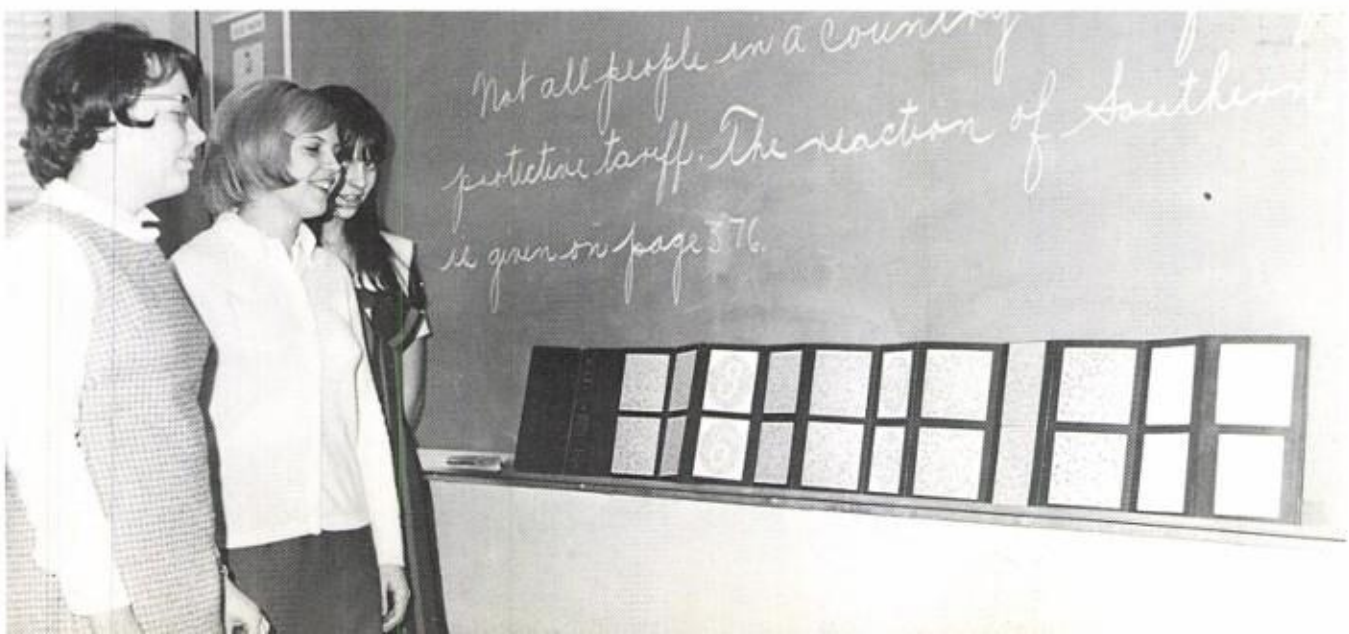
Classroom Driver Training Moves To 10th Grade



Mr. Snyder helps Dean Bentz measure Bruce Ecenroad's peripheral vision.

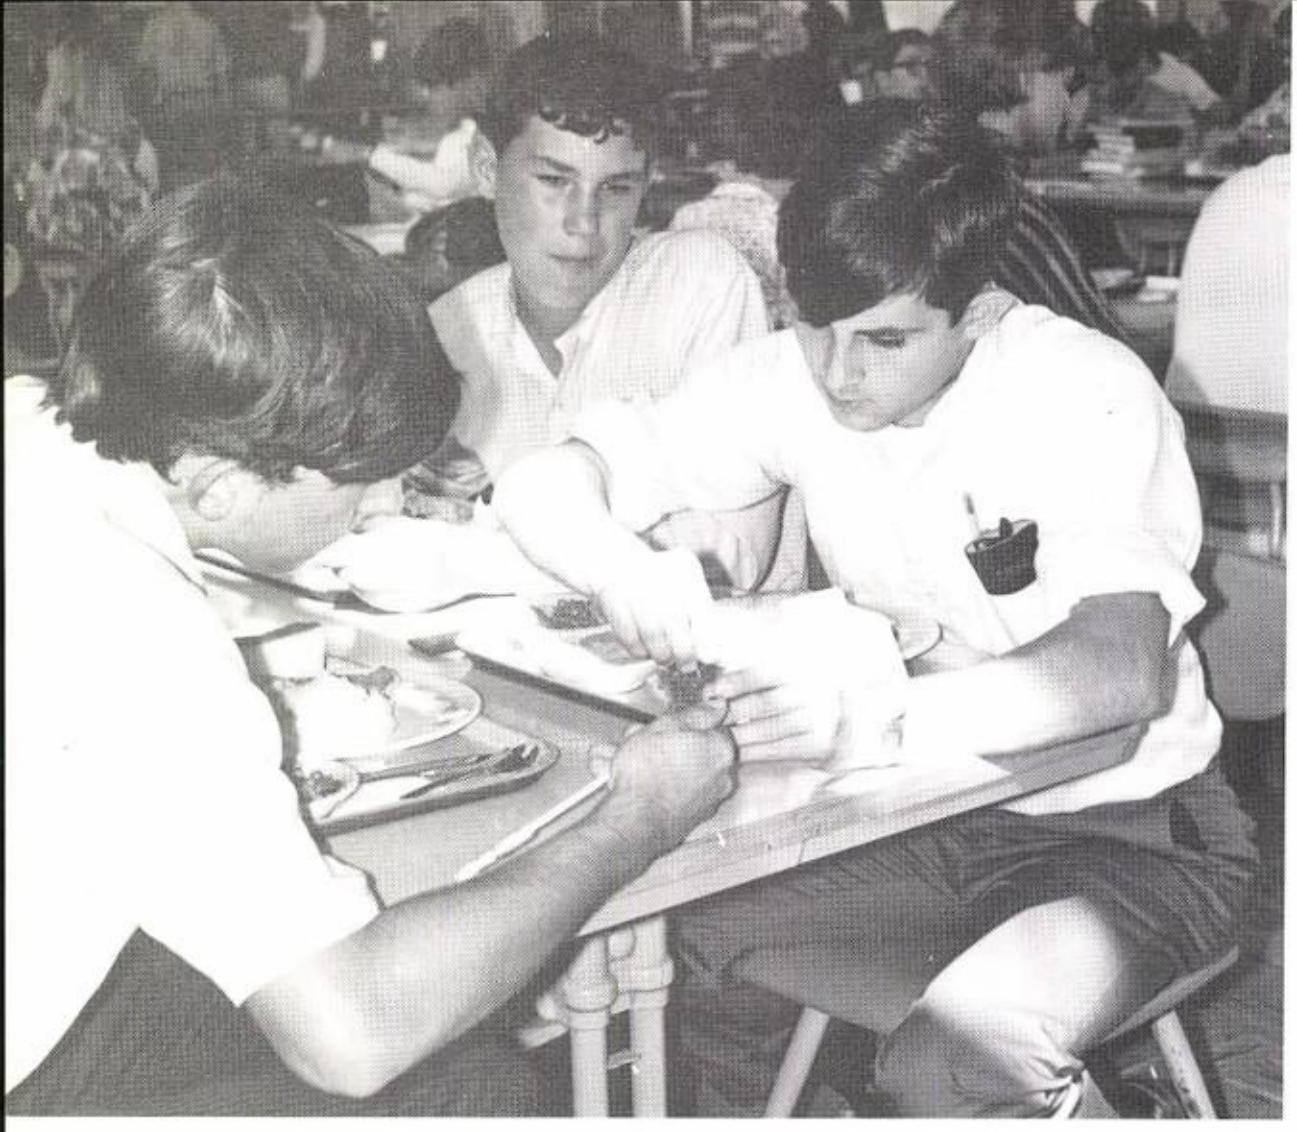
This year tenth graders are given Driver Ed as well as the eleventh graders. Next year the course will be limited to sophomores.

On the road training is offered to juniors. Here Cindy Zimmerman gets ready to test her driving skill.



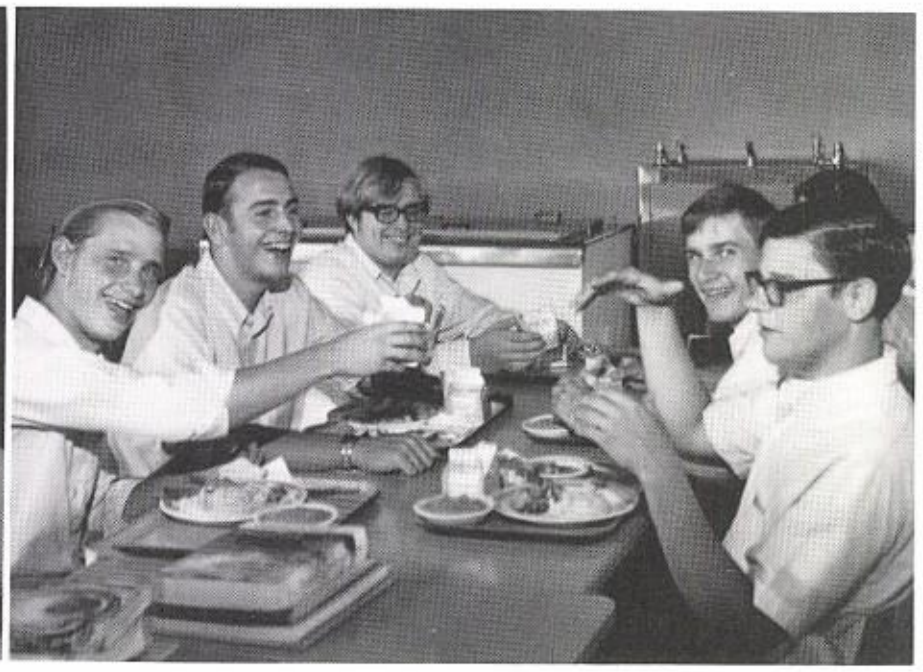
Louise Gelsinger, Vicki Moyer, and Andrea Smith test themselves for color-blindness.

Cafeteria, High School's Most Versatile Room



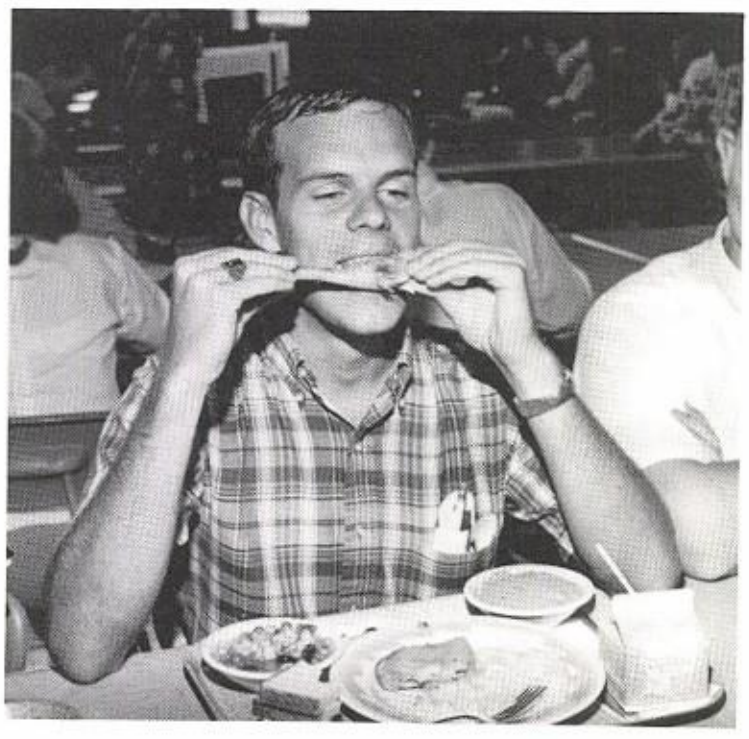
Mike Heim helps Glen Flickinger do a problem with his slide-rule while Dennis Witmer watches. Such a scene is very typical at lunch.

Earl Kreider reads his book as David Lally gobbles his lunch to avoid being late for class.



Clowning around at lunch is nothing unusual for these seniors.

This fall the yearbook staff sold pictures at lunch. Selling tickets for other activities is also common.



Woody Lutz is really enjoying his chicken leg.

Ruth,

To a very sweet girl and dear sister. Never forget all the good times we had and the trouble we got into. Never forget our trip to Lebanon or the accident.

Lots of luck in all you do.

"Love,
"Snuck"

To a Really Great person whom I have the honor to call a Sister. I know your life won't have been complete after you've left Beirut but all the Great times we've had together will always be remembered. Never forget the people who helped you through the hard times and those who made you laugh. Remember Christ. May luck and success be with you always. Love, Ralph "72"

Ruth,
To a real cool Roomer that just use to get on your nerves. Good luck. I'll take care of you. Hope you do fine in all you do.
Be your friend always.
Dave
